

HINDENBURG GIVES HITLER A CHANCE, ON CONDITIONS

States Terms on Which He Will Make Nazi Leader Chancellor—One Is He Must Line Up Majority in Reichstag.

THIS ISN'T LIKELY, OBSERVERS THINK

Also He Must Not Meddle With Prussia—Pivotal Parties, Nationalists, Centrists, Bavarians, Unwilling to Let Hitler Rule.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Nov. 21.—President von Hindenburg today commissioned Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, to try to form a cabinet and program of action, but stipulated that the cabinet must be backed by a majority, or almost a majority, of the Reichstag. Von Hindenburg was unwilling to make Hitler Chancellor on any other terms.

It developed that von Hindenburg had placed other restrictions on Hitler. One of them was that the Hitler cabinet must not interfere with the Federal Commission government of Prussia.

Hitler now has a chance of achieving his ambition, but political observers deemed the chance remote, pointing out that the pivotal parties—the Nationalists, the Centrists and the Bavarians—are possibly willing to have the National Socialists govern Germany, but not willing to have Hitler dominate the nation.

National Socialists Pleaded. At National Socialist headquarters in Munich, the party was busy with the President's action, which was regarded not as a commission, but as a mandate to form a cabinet.

Hitler later sent the President a letter in which it was understood that the conditions of the mandate were too narrow, although the formation of an authoritarian cabinet under Hitler leadership still might be accomplished.

Hitler immediately summoned the principal subleaders in his party to a conference. The National Socialist spokesman said: "Herr Hitler does not think that he, as leader of the largest party in Germany, should round begging the smaller parties to support. We are quite willing to have men like Konstantin von Neurath, Count Lutz von Krosigk, Hermann Goring, Kurt von Schleicher, continue to serve."

Neurath was Chancellor of the Reich, Foreign Minister, Count von Krosigk, his Finance Minister, and Gen. von Schleicher the Minister of Defense. A government communiqué said Hitler would notify the President of his course immediately, and would be continued in the capacity of leader of the largest party in the Reichstag after he had declared most emphatically to the President of the Reich that his party could cooperate only in a Government led by himself. The National Socialist polled one-third of the vote in the last election, and so have one-third of the seats in the Reichstag.

15-Minute Conference. Today's turn of events came at 15-minute conference between von Hindenburg and Hitler. The two discussed the situation Saturday and were to have met again tomorrow, but Otto Meißner, President von Hindenburg's secretary, ranged to move up the second meeting to this morning.

On Saturday Hitler stressed four points: (1) The National Socialists are Germany's last bulwark against Communism; (2) the National Socialists are the only party which is sacrosanct to the National Socialists; (3) the National Socialists are the only party which is sacrosanct to the National Socialists; (4) a cabinet headed by Hitler would consider its cardinal domestic task to be to get the jobs of the streets and into productive life.

He replied the President told Hitler over his plans with the other parties and report that the morning, just as on Saturday, crowds gathered in front of the President's office and the Hitler Hotel to watch Hitler's departure. His followers sang and cheered, and the police were forced to keep a line clear of Hitler's automobile.

PRESIDENT LOWELL QUILTS HARVARD AFTER 23 YEARS

Overseers Accept Resignation of 24th Head of University, Effective When His Successor Is Named.

By the Associated Press. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21.—A Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University for 23 years, today tendered his resignation to the fellows of the college and the members of the board of overseers to be effective when his successor has been named. Both bodies voted to accept the resignation with regret.

Lowell, who is almost 76 years old, indicated he would prefer to serve until the close of the current academic year. He has been the twenty-fourth in line of Harvard presidents which extends back to Henry Dunster in 1640 and his term of office has been exceeded only twice. Charles William Eliot, his immediate predecessor, served 40 years.

Under Dr. Lowell, Harvard has grown enormously, and it has adopted reforms which have had far-reaching consequences in the world of education. No action has been taken with regard to the appointment of his successor.

His hands stuffed full of the papers relating to amounts from $10 to $5000, Boyd walked into the office of the Tuscaloosa News yesterday and after employees of the paper helped him burn them, inserted the following advertisement: Notice to the greatest majority of the people that I hold notes, mortgages and open accounts against:

"I am today destroying approximately $27,000 worth of this kind of paper, so, boys, you need not dodge me; come in and see me and let's talk things over and forget the past. I hold no ill will against anyone. Thanking all of you for all past favors, I am, yours very truly, W. A. Boyd."

BROOKLYN NEWSPAPER ADOPTS 5-DAY WEEK FOR EMPLOYEES

Only Ones Not Affected Are Members of Unions, Most of Which Already Are Using Plan.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Brooklyn Daily Eagle announced that it was putting into effect to-day a five-day week plan for its employees.

The plan will affect employees of the Eagle commercial printing department as well as employees of the newspaper. The announcement said the only employees not affected were members of unions, most of whom already are on a five-day week.

The plan has been under consideration for some time and the Eagle management said its adoption would result in increased employment in certain cases.

The Eagle announced that the five-day week was adopted as part compensation for a wage reduction, the employees getting one extra day off each week.

BRETTEN THINKS HOOVER WILL NOT VETO BEER BILL

Illinois Congressman Expresses View After Discussion of Modification With President.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Representative Bretten (Rep.) Illinois after a conference with President Hoover at which he said possible beer legislation was discussed, told newspaper men he was "quite satisfied Mr. Hoover would not veto a beer bill."

Long an advocate of modification of the Volstead Act, he said he had devoted his entire conference with the President to discussion of this subject.

After spending about 10 minutes in the President's office, Bretten spoke with newspaper men on leaving for the Capitol. He refused to make any statement on Mr. Hoover's direct reaction to the views he had expressed to him.

Summary of His Bill. Bretten said he was "ready to go ahead with a beer bill that would provide against return of the moon, and would protect states wishing to remain dry, but would provide for others 2.75 beer by weight."

Communications will be sent to-day to Representatives Beck (Rep.) Pennsylvania and La Guardia (Rep.) New York, leaders and sponsors respectively, of the House anti-prohibition bill in the House, Bretten said, asking them to arrange a meeting of this bloc before the convening of Congress on Dec. 5.

Bretten said he had told Mr. Hoover he was confident that the bill he had in mind, providing a tax of 3 or 4 cents a pint and would bring in $15,000,000 a month right from the start.

He said this would allow the retailing of beer at 10 cents a bottle.

"I am quite confident," he said, "that New Year's eve will be celebrated with real beer rather than poor wine. If the Democrats will sign up to their platform for immediate modification, a bill could be brought up on the second day of Congress and under a special rule limiting debate on either side to 20 minutes, could be passed through the house by Dec. 10."

Dyer Expresses Prompt Action. Representative Dyer of St. Louis, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, predicted to-day it would approve a resolution for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"I think—and with the greatest confidence—that that will be one of the first things the committee will do after it meets next month," he told reporters.

"All Democratic members will be for repeal because of their platform. There won't be enough Republican opposition to stop it."

"I can't see any necessity at all for hearings."

Dyer said he would favor submitting the repeal resolution directly to Legislatures, instead of conventions, "because it would take less time."

HUN FOR DRIVER WHO KILLED BOY ON SLED AND FLED

Body of Edward Costello, 11, Apparently Placed in Gutter by Motorist Hour Before It Was Found.

SHOE OF VICTIM DISCOVERED IN ALLEY

Police Think He Was Dragged From Underneath Car, Driven Around All Night, Left in Street.

After a day's extensive search, police are still without a clue to the identity of the motorist who left Saturday night, dragging beneath his car 11-year-old Edward J. Costello, who had coasted on a sled into the path of the automobile at Burr and Maffitt avenues.

The boy's body, bruised and battered, was found in a gutter on Greer avenue, 450 feet east of Goodfellow avenue, at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Death had been caused by a fractured skull. Police said the body had been placed there less than an hour before.

A coroner's verdict of "homicide after a car" was returned today. The driver was not seen.

Extensive Police Search. Half of the city's detective force and every patrolman at Page avenue station searched garages and alleys in north-west St. Louis yesterday and today for a trace of the driver. So far, they have discovered only one of the boy's shoes, in an alley behind the 5400 block of St. Louis avenue. The other shoe and his hat are missing.

This point, behind 5471 St. Louis is where the driver stopped to drag Edward out from beneath his car, police think. They are of the opinion that he kept the child in his automobile through the night, and on discovering yesterday morning that he was dead, dumped the body in the Greer avenue gutter. There are no houses in that block of Greer avenue.

"We are doing everything possible to bring this driver to justice," Chief of Police Gerk said. "This is one of the most atrocious crimes I know of. It illustrates a ruthless disregard for human life."

The driver had stopped, instead of running, and he was seen by a patrolman who saw him lights out, dragging the boy over bricks and cobble stones. It is possible the boy's life might have been saved.

The Police Department will welcome any information from any source to indicate who the driver was, and it will hold the source of the information strictly confidential.

Two Men Seen in Alley. Chief Gerk pointed out that witnesses saw two men in the car. "If the passenger comes in and tells us about it, that will be in his favor," he continued. "If he does not, a jury probably will consider him guilty of the death of this boy because he, by his failure to give the police his knowledge of this felony, becomes, in my opinion, an accessory after the fact."

With a dozen other boys of the neighborhood, Edward had been coasting down Maffitt avenue, from Clara to Burr, Saturday night. They were playing a game called "Tip-over Ed," when they died in the gutter. The boy was seen by a patrolman who saw him lights out, dragging the boy over bricks and cobble stones. It is possible the boy's life might have been saved.

At about 8:40, Edward and two companions—Earl McConnell, 5619 Lehigh avenue, and Melvin Moser, 1516 Clara avenue—went down the hill at the same time. Earl tried to overturn Edward and was himself overturned. Edward's small sled was faster than Melvin's and he was at the street corner, almost 50 feet ahead, when Melvin heard someone shout, "Look out; you'll get hit."

No Signs of Edward. He rolled off his sled, and holding on to it, slid to a stop. When he looked up, there was no sign of Edward. Melvin cried down the hill and John Hammerschmidt, 5535 Maffitt avenue, told him what had happened. An automobile had run over Edward, he alleged, while the lights were switched out, and then had picked up speed again, north in Burr avenue. Melvin and Hammerschmidt ran after it, but were outdistanced. The car turned east to St. Louis avenue three blocks north, and after Hammerschmidt had called police, he and Melvin trudged back to Maffitt avenue, where they found Edward's crushed sled.

HOOVER PARDONS MAN WHO GAVE UP AFTER 34 YEARS

W. Kirby Robinson, Who Escaped After Conviction as Postoffice Robber, Is Freed at Once.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 21.—A full pardon from President Hoover was the reward received today by W. Kirby Robinson, who surrendered to serve a sentence to Leavenworth penitentiary imposed 34 years ago for an Arkansas post-office robbery.

Robinson was released by Elmer F. Harman, Deputy United States Marshal, on receipt of a telegram tolling of the issuance of the pardon.

The 65-year-old Californian, who escaped from officers by leaping from a moving train in the old Indian Territory as he was being escorted to Leavenworth from Fort Smith, Ark., said he would return immediately to Westmoreland, Cal.

Robinson appeared before Warden Fred Zerbst at Leavenworth, Oct. 12 and related a story of conscience-ridden years during which he had prospered but had lived in fear of exposure. Zerbst had no commitment papers and refused admittance to Robinson.

Later it was found that the Department of Justice had available no records of the four-year sentence. Robinson remained in jail at Leavenworth until Nov. 6, when he was brought here to await a decision in his case from the Attorney-General.

"All through the years," Robinson said, explaining his offer to serve his sentence, "I had that struggle with my conscience. I realized that the right course for me to take was to surrender to whatever judgment the Government would impose upon me. It was my desire to do right which led me to take the steps and return to Leavenworth."

During the 34 years Robinson was a fugitive, he went to Texas and later to California, where he once served as a Deputy Sheriff and now owns an interest in a tourist camp and a store at Westmoreland.

WOMAN DECLARES SHE IS THE WIDOW OF R. J. HOLTHAUS

At Bier of Stock Broker, Always Known as Bachelor, She Surprises Family With Her Statement.

Three women visited the home of Mrs. Emma M. Holthaus, 5350 Waterman boulevard, yesterday afternoon, to see the body of her son, Robert J. Holthaus, a stock broker, who died suddenly on Friday.

One of the women said to Mr. Holthaus' brother, Arthur, who greeted her at the door: "I guess Robert has told you about me. He was my husband."

Mrs. Holthaus had not told anything about her, however. His family knew him as a bachelor. He resided with his mother, the widow of Edward D. Holthaus, wealthy tobacco manufacturer.

The woman said her maiden name was Klausmeyer and introduced one of her companions as her sister, Miss Klausmeyer, but did not introduce the other. No one else was in the room. She said that she and Mr. Holthaus had a son, but did not tell his name or age, nor did she give her address. She asked that her name be included in the death notice published by the family.

Arthur Holthaus told the visitor the family would be glad to recognize her as his brother's widow if she could substantiate her claim. She remained only a few minutes and talked to no one else. Holthaus described her as about 40 years old, with auburn hair and nicely dressed.

Earlier yesterday afternoon flowers had arrived at the home, with a card, "From the Klausmeyer family." The name was not familiar to relatives of the late Mr. Holthaus, who supposed these were friends he had not mentioned.

Death Notice Changed. The death notice published in newspapers by the Holthaus family did not mention a widow, but named his mother, two sisters and two brothers as his survivors. This morning, however, a second notice was published along with the family's, as follows:

HOLTHAUS, ROBERT J.—Beloved husband of Minnie E. (nee Klausmeyer), father of Robert J., Jr., and our dear brother-in-law. Funeral from the residence, 5350 Waterman avenue, Monday, Nov. 21, 1932. Funeral private. Burial in the cemetery. At 5324 Glasgow avenue a woman who came to the door this morning, said she would abandon a plan to fly home.

ANTI-TRUST ACTION IS TERMINATED IN CONSENT DECREE

Department of Justice Insists on and Gets Every Point That Would Have Been Settled Had Case Gone Through Hearing.

METHOD OF SALE OF SHARES FIXED

Concerns in Control Enjoined From Enforcing the Exclusive Provision of Their Patent Cross-Licensing Agreement.

By the Associated Press. WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 21.—A settlement was effected in the Federal District Court of the Government anti-trust suit against the Radio Corporation of America and other defendants.

In announcing the settlement, the Department of Justice said: In working out the provisions of the decree, which was entered with the consent of the defendants, the officials of the Department of Justice have proceeded on the principle that the decree must grant substantially all that the Government could reasonably expect at the end of a trial.

The case against the General Motors Corporation, General Motors Radio Corporation, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Electric Co., Inc., was dismissed at the request of the Government and an injunction decree was issued against the remaining defendants.

The General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Co., which own a controlling stock interest in the Radio Corporation are to divest themselves of the stockholdings of themselves and their respective subsidiaries in the Radio Corporation of America, the decree ordered.

"The decree provides that the terms as to the foreign contracts shall be tried by the court if those contracts should remain unchanged at the end of that time."

"The defendants maintained that they had not violated the antitrust law, and consented to the decree on condition that this should not constitute an admission by them or an adjudication that they had violated any law of the United States."

Details of Distribution. This shall be done as follows, the decree orders: General Electric Co. shall within three months from this date, divest itself of substantially one-half of all of the holdings of itself, and its subsidiaries of the shares of common stock of Radio Corporation of America by distributing such shares ratably to its own common stockholders, or causing them to be so distributed.

"The balance of such common stock and the shares of preferred stock of Radio Corporation of America held by General Electric Co. and its subsidiaries shall be disposed of within three years from the date hereof by distributing such shares ratably to its common stockholders, or causing them to be so distributed, or otherwise disposed of."

Prosecution Explains. The Department of Justice gave out the following statement explaining the settlement: "A decree of this nature was granted today in the case by the United States District Court at Wilmington directed the complete divestment of the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric Co. and Manufacturing Co. from the Radio Corporation of America, and enjoined the defendants from attempting to restrain trade by means of patent licenses of similar devices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law."

"In working out the provisions of the decree, which was entered with the consent of the defendants, the officials of the Department of Justice have proceeded on the principle that the decree must grant substantially all that the Government could reasonably expect at the end of a trial."

INDUSTRY MUST PROVIDE JOBS OR RELIEVE OBLESS, A. F. L. DECLARES

Council Recommends Unemployment Insurance Plan, With Entire Cost Borne by Employers, Taxed on Payroll Basis.

POINTS TO FAILURE TO SUPPLY WORK

Report Says There Is 'Deep Feeling of Revolt' and That 60,000,000 in U. S. Live Below Minimum Health Standard.

By the Associated Press. CINCINNATI, Nov. 21.—Unemployment insurance in every state and universal adoption of the five-day week and six-hour day were proclaimed as labor's objectives today as the American Federation of Labor opened its fifty-second annual convention.

"We will go out and call on the Legislatures of the various states to enact proposed unemployment insurance into law," declared William Green, president.

"One great reform," he said, "needed to put men and women back to work is to establish in a universal way the five-day week and the six-hour day. This reform, which must ultimately be effected, would, if applied immediately, electricity economic conditions."

While 323 delegates and hundreds of visitors heard Green outline labor's objectives, the federation's Executive Committee presented its own plan for a system of unemployment insurance in every state, administered by State commissions, and supported financially wholly by the employers of labor.

The convention, Green announced, "must and will grapple with unemployment, relief and all factors of the depression."

At the same time the council reported "indications are that a favorable action providing for a modification of the Volstead Act to permit beer 'will be taken at the short session of Congress, which meets Dec. 5."

"The council," the report said, "would much prefer that working people be paid more than 16 and be accorded job security than to see them accept relief because of unemployment."

But, it added, "the facts are that the management of industry has not provided work security or created work opportunities for those who are able, willing and eager to work."

"Work or Relief." Hence, it held, "industry must be compelled to do what it has thus far failed to do. Work or relief must be provided."

It suggested enactment of a compulsory unemployment insurance plan in each state. The project would be administered by a state commission the council proposed that funds for its operation be drawn from employers, in contributions of not less than 3 per cent of the total payroll of the individual employer. The money would be invested in Federal securities.

The council said the plan would not deny benefits of unemployment insurance to those out of work because of a trade dispute, or to obtain work except under conditions less favorable than those prevailing locally, or if non-membership in a labor union was made a condition of employment.

Explaining how the insurance plan would operate, with Ohio as an example the committee said benefits would be paid unemployed persons for not more than 15 weeks in one year. The payments would be based on 50 per cent of the normal wage, but not exceed $15 a week.

The Executive Council declined to recommend unemployment insurance at last year's convention, but last July, changed its mind, according to William Green, president of the federation, because "our warning that the nation must provide work for the unemployed or unemployment relief instead of supplying temporary jobs for idle people has not been heeded."

Demand for Beer Legislation. The report on beer said the council "will present an earnest appeal and a strong demand to the members of Congress when the short session convenes . . . to pass the necessary legislation . . . without delay, and at the earliest possible date."

The report said there was indicated "a genuine desire on the part of the membership of the American Federation of Labor to promote the cause of temperance, and in addition, through the rehabilitation of the brewing and related industries, create work opportunities for thousands of idle people."

At the last session of Congress, it said, "An increasing number of members of Congress voted in favor of a modification of the Volstead Act" and "it must be clearly evident to all classes of people that

BERNARD SHAW TO MAKE WORLD TOUR "TO DO SOME WORK"

British Author to Sail With Wife Next Month—May Touch California.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 21.—Bernard Shaw, the playwright, said today he would start on a world tour the middle of December. The Sunday Times suggested that he would return by way of San Francisco.

Shaw, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Shaw, said he would spend Christmas in the Holy Land, if his plans went well.

"What I want to do," he said, "is to get into a ship and get down to some hard work. There is nothing like getting aboard ship if one wants to combine rest with hard work."

The Sunday Times said that Shaw would sail on the Empress of Britain for Egypt, India, Ceylon, Singapore and China and that he might make his first visit to the United States in California. The playwright often has been importuned to visit America, but he always refused.

Regarding reports here that he would fly over the great wall in China, he said:

"I shall be in the neighborhood of the great wall, but reports that I shall fly over it are pure invention; but if any air man offers me a lift I might fly over."

public opinion has greatly changed upon this question."

The report added: "It is the definite purpose of the American Federation of Labor to continue its efforts to bring about a modification of the Volstead Act providing for the manufacture and sale of wholesome beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol by weight at the earliest possible date."

"Deep Feeling of Revolt." Devoting most of its space to economic matters, the report said there was in this country "a deep feeling of revolt against a situation that denies workers a chance to earn a living."

It estimated that "at least 60,000,000 persons are now living below minimum health and efficiency standards and said "we are denying one-third of our wage and small salaried workers the right to work."

"Could there be a more serious indictment of our present economic order?" the council asked.

"Slow starvation means that gradually physical vitality is being sapped, anxiety and despair are creating a spirit of suspicion, fear and rebellion . . . workers have borne the brunt of the depression . . . industry cannot possibly recover until workers' buying power is restored."

The process of raising wages must be carried on co-operatively throughout industry."

Seven-Point Income Plan. The council's seven-point plan for more equitable distribution of income follows:

(1) Steeply graduated income and inheritance taxes; (2) constructive control of credit to finance production; (3) protection of workers' interests equal to that of those who invest financially in industry; (4) setting up of a Federal agency to collect information on labor and to provide standards for determining economic balance; (5) Federal licenses for corporations operating on an interstate scope with specific requirements of accounting; (6) all accounts available to those interested and a protective service for the investors; (7) organization of wage earners to advance their interests within industry and other relationships."

The Davis-Kelly bill for stabilization of the soft coal industry was endorsed and opposition to the proposed Eastern railroad consolidation was reaffirmed.

own a controlling stock interest in the Radio Corporation, are to divest themselves of their stock holdings. They must dispose of one-half their holdings of the common stock of the Radio Corporation by immediate distribution ratably among their stockholders, and the remainder of their holdings within three years.

"Meantime they are forbidden to exercise the voting rights of their stock."

"They also are forbidden to impose any limitation upon the power of their stockholders freely to transfer or dispose of the shares of Radio Corporation stock received by them."

"The two electric companies are enjoined from acquiring stock in the Radio Corporation in the future, and from being represented on its board of directors, except that Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., and Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Co., may remain as directors of the Radio Corporation of America during a transition period of five months."

"The decree also enjoins these defendants, and their subsidiaries, from further recognizing or enforcing the exclusive provision of their patent cross-licensing agreements."

"The Government had complained that these cross-licensing agreements were made to eliminate competition among the defendants in violation of the antitrust law."

"It asserted also that the pooling of more than 4000 patents applicable in the radio field, and the granting to the Radio Corporation of the exclusive rights to license the use of the pool's patents in this field, hampered the right of third persons to engage in the radio business."

Barring Restraint of Trade. "The decree enjoins the defendants from hereafter entering into any arrangement among themselves or with third persons in any way limiting or restricting the freedom of any of them or the freedom of third persons to use their own patents or patent rights or to license others to do so."

"Agreements for the division of fields or territory or the use of other similar devices unlawfully to restrain trade are also forbidden."

"The defendants are given a period of two and one-half years in which to secure modification or changes of the contracts with foreign governments or corporations in order to meet the Government objection to them."

"The Government stood upon its assertion that the facts alleged in this petition were true, and that the defendants had violated the antitrust law. In recommending that the court enter the decree, the representative of the Attorney General stated that in their opinion the decree embodied all the relief necessary to meet the objections made in the pleadings of the Government."

Suit Begun in 1930. "The original petition of the Government in this case was filed in the spring of 1930. Twice during the interim between the filing of the original petition and the entry of the decree today, extensive negotiations were had looking to the disposition of the suit without trial."

"The Government's pleadings named the following defendants: Radio Corporation of America; General Electric Co. and its subsidiary, International General Electric Co.; Westinghouse Electric International Co.; National Broadcasting Co., Inc.; R. C. A. Communications, Inc.; R. C. A. Photo-Phone, Inc.; R. C. A. Radiotron Co., Inc.; R. C. A. Victor Co., Inc.; the last five companies being subsidiaries of Radio Corporation of America."

BORAH TO LOSE POWERFUL POST IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Democratic Organization of Senate in March to Make Swanson of Virginia Chairman.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A complete shake-up in Senate leadership because of the change from Republican to Democratic control will mark the new Congress beginning in March.

The transfer of Senate organization to the Democrats, meaning a new lineup of committee chairmen, will see also younger faces taking over direction of the Republican side of the chamber.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who has led Democrats through many years in the Senate, doubtless will become majority leader despite suggestions of opposition from some quarters.

On the Republican side, Senator McNary of Oregon probably will be the new leader in place of Senator Watson of Indiana, who went down to defeat in the election.

Other comparative newcomers will fill the shoes of the half dozen old-timers who lost at the polls. The most radical change will come, however, in committee chairmanships.

Borah of Idaho, who has been chairman of the important Foreign Relations Committee for eight years, will turn over, this prized post to Senator Swanson of Virginia.

Pat Harrison of Mississippi, long a spokesman for Democrats in fiscal matters, will take over chairmanship of the Finance Committee, which frames tax legislation, in place of Reed Smoot of Utah.

Carter Glass of Virginia, former Secretary of the Treasury, is in line for the chairmanship of the potent Appropriations Committee in place of the late Wesley L. Jones of Washington, who died Saturday.

If the Virginian should choose, he probably could have the Banking Committee, which has increased in prestige during the recent economic troubles, instead of the appropriations. Senator Fletcher of Florida, is on top of the list for the Banking Committee post, but he may prefer the Commerce Committee group.

Senator Carter's Widow Dies. SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Thomas H. Carter, 70 years old, widow of United States Senator Carter, died here today of pneumonia. Her sister, Mrs. Thomas J. Walker of Butte, Mont., will take the body to Washington. Mrs. Carter is survived by her sister, two brothers and two sons.

General Motors Corporation, and General Motors Radio Corporation, being named defendants, were ordered to discontinue the suit prior to the entry of this decree on the request of Warren Olney Jr., special assistant to the Attorney General, who informed the court that subsequent to the filing of the Government's amended petition last March 7, General Motors Radio Corporation had been dissolved and the agreements linking General Motors Corporation with the General Motors Radio Corporation with the other defendants had been terminated, and that the agreement involving the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Western Electric Co., Inc., had been modified so as to meet the objections to them complained of by the Government."

Statement to Stockholders. In a statement accompanying a letter to stockholders, made public after the decree was announced, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation, said that an announcement also is made "of negotiations for broadcasting studios and office space, undertaken when the project of Radio City was conceived, has now been reduced to the present requirements of the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiaries."

"The modifications of the Radio City lease," the statement accompanied the letter, adds, "in the amount of space to be occupied and the rentals to be paid are being adjusted through the issuance to stockholders of 100,000 shares of the A preferred stock of the Radio Corporation."

The letter also said, "The R. C. A. now receives patent rights and licenses for the manufacture and sale of radio devices useful in other than the generally recognized lines of radio business."

PRESIDENT HAS DEFINITE IDEAS ON DEBTS, SAYS MILLS

But 'Interesting Thing' to Hoover Is What Roosevelt Thinks and What He Is Going to Do.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Czechoslovakia aligned itself beside Great Britain, France and Belgium in seeking war debt revision today, in a note asking for suspension of the $1,500,000 payment it owes this country Dec. 15.

Publication will go over until tomorrow, when President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt are ready to talk over the war debt problem at the White House.

Ferdinand Verwilt, the Czechoslovakian Minister, presented the document at the State Department. The amount due from this country is all on account of principal.

Some War Debt Obligations. The total obligation of Czechoslovakia to the United States stands at $167,071,023. Payments already have been made which aggregate $18,304,178.

The British Government was the first to ask for an extension of the moratorium and general reconsideration of inter-governmental debt settlements. Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, presented this request to Secretary Stimson Nov. 10. France followed with a similar memorandum the next day and Belgium on Nov. 15. Great Britain owes $85,850,000 due Dec. 15. The French payment due on that date is $19,261,438 and the Belgian $2,125,000.

On Wednesday morning, after tomorrow's conference with Gov. Roosevelt, Mr. Hoover will go over the same ground with 13 leaders of Congress—Republican and Democratic Senators and Representatives. Among them will be Speaker Garner, Vice-President-elect.

Upon their attitude and that of their following depends, in the last analysis, the attitude of this Government in connection with payments due Dec. 15, because any policy on the question announced by the President must win their approval.

After a talk with the President, at which he said war debts were discussed, Secretary Mills today said the President had "definite ideas" as to what America's answer to the debt problem should be, but that he felt "the interesting thing is what Mr. Roosevelt is going to do, and what his ideas will be."

The Treasury Secretary said he was definitely whether Mr. Hoover would recommend again a revival of the War Debt Commission. He did say, however, that such an organization would "be very helpful right now."

The Chief Executive is counting upon Mr. Roosevelt's influence with Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill, should they be able to reach common ground, both in his answer to the foreign debtors' requests for a suspension of Dec. 15 payments and for a reopening of debt negotiations.

The President has been represented by high members of his administration as definitely opposed to another year's moratorium. He has been described at the same time as favoring a more strict attitude toward debtor nations, but as recognizing that some European countries cannot pay.

President Hoover today shifted plans for the meeting tomorrow between him and the President-elect to carry him to the second floor of the Executive Mansion, where the study is located. It was in this room that Mr. Hoover held his conferences on international affairs with Ramsey MacDonald of Great Britain, Pierre Laval of France and Dino Grandi of Italy.

The St. Clair Auto Finance Co., located on the sixth floor of the Murphy Building, 234 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, was held up this afternoon by two men, who fled with $100.

One man entered the office shortly before 2:30 o'clock and engaged Harry Esserman, manager, in conversation about a loan. The man drew a pistol, forcing Esserman, to lie on the floor. A second man, who had waited in the corridor, walked in, taking the money from a cash drawer.

When the robbers departed Esserman shouted, "Holdup." George Rampenthal, elevator operator, saw the men running down a stairway and followed them to the basement. One man drew a pistol, threatening to kill Rampenthal, who retreated. The robbers fled through a rear door to a waiting automobile, and drove away.

The Missouri license on the machine was reported to police, who say the tags were issued to a resident of Delmar boulevard. Police believe the license issued for a different make machine than that used by the robbers, was stolen.

Thomasson's Suit Enters 15th Week and Sets Record

Judge Says It Must End Soon and Jurors Agree—4,000,000 Words Or 16,000 Pages of Testimony.

The Hugh W. Thomasson sanity hearing entered its fifteenth week today, definitely establishing a record for trial of lawsuits in the St. Louis Circuit Court. It probably will end this week.

The greatest degree of certainty lies in Circuit Judge Hoffmeister's statement that it must end. He has been ready to take charge of the December grand jury early next month. Counsel presenting rebuttal testimony agree that "enough" is enough.

That is the attitude of the jurors. It was torrid summer when the case started. The world has moved, surprisingly. Gov. Roosevelt has waged a successful presidential campaign. The Yankees have won a pennant and a world championship. Labor day and Armistice day have come and gone. Still the stream of witnesses has moved through the courtroom. The count from the bench has been 113 for the plaintiff, 126 for the defense and 20 whose depositions were read by both sides.

Witnesses of All Kinds. Banker, waitress, real estate man, chauffeur, lawyer, barber, physician, plumber, mental specialist, florist's clerk, hotel proprietor each has had something to say about Hugh W. Thomasson's sanity.

Some have said he was "under par mentally," as far as 40 years back; others that now, at 75, he is still able to drive a good business deal and knows how to take care of his $750,000 worth of real estate. Whether he eats as a savage in a good room, whether he dresses pitifully or like a gentleman, are things the jury will have to decide. Motion pictures have shown him going through a meal in the garden at his attorney's home. That was in warm weather, too.

Figures on the testimony are impressive. Joseph Feldman, official shorthand reporter, has taken the records 74 days, and an assistant six days. Feldman says that the record, if transcribed, would take 18,000 typewritten pages and would cost the lawyers wanting the copy, $7800. The number of words is something like 4,000,000. Included, also, would be 1025 documents submitted as exhibits.

Pay for the jurors, at $3 each a day, is nearly $3000. They have already had three pay days. All have been away from their jobs, except one who is unemployed. No juror has been ill or has missed a session.

Old-Told Tale of Marriage. The story of Thomasson's married life, which began in July, 1930, with a woman 44 years his junior, has been recited again and again. Files of litigation in the Circuit and Probate Courts of the St. Louis County, the St. Louis Court of Appeals and the Missouri Supreme Court have been introduced into evidence. But for a Federal injunction in the cash was filed and decided during earlier stages of the trial.

the court, has been in the courtroom since the beginning of the trial.

VETERANS' BUREAU SEEKING SOME WAY TO PAY BONUS

Hines Says Many Proposals Are Being Considered; Certificates Valued at Present $1,579,000,000.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The veterans' administration is attempting to formulate a plan which will permit the payment of the present value of the soldiers' bonus certificates, if that should be desired.

This was made known today by Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs. He emphasized that no plan had been evolved as yet and that many proposals were under consideration. He declined to give any details.

The administrator is gathering data and studying various proposals in anticipation of his appearance soon before the joint committee appointed last session to make a study of veterans' affairs.

Establishment of a sinking fund by means of various economies is one method. It was said this might permit payment of the present value of the certificates at any time to those who were in actual need and desired the money.

The present value of the certificates was given as $1,579,000,000, while the full maturity value in 1945 would be $7,514,000,000.

LIQUOR FINE REDUCED

IN LIGHT OF ELECTION

Judge Faris Follows Plan in First Case, but Not in all Before Him.

Federal Judge Faris, in passing today on the first liquor case which has come before him since the election of Nov. 8, said:

"In view of the happenings of the last few weeks, in which the voters expressed their desires, I am going to impose the minimum sentence."

He fined Walter Julian $100 on his plea of guilty to second-offense possession of liquor. The maximum penalty is $500 fine, or six months in jail, or both. Julian paid the fine.

In the case of Andrea Costa, who pleaded guilty of violation of the revenue laws, Judge Faris gave the minimum sentence, two months in jail and $100 fine, for concealing 100 gallons of untaxed liquor in a Bellefontaine road farmhouse.

In other cases heard today, without further comment from the bench, Judge Faris did not adhere to the minimum sentence plan, but gave jail sentences on first-offense pleas of guilty.

He sentenced Antonio Delvecchio to jail for two months, with $100 fine, for sale of a quart of whisky at a farmhouse near Florissant. He sent Ernest Turner of 1012 Carr street to jail for two months for the sale of half a pint of liquor, and he gave Kimber Michael the same punishment for selling a quart of home brew in a flat at 6112A Barmine avenue.

Andrew Trapp, bartender at 1023 Rutger street, pleaded guilty to first-offense possession of liquor, and was fined $50. He said he could not pay the fine, and would have to go to jail for 30 days.

INJUNCTION BARS MEETING OF ST. LOUIS AMUSEMENT CO.

Temporary Writ Issued After Stockholders Were Called to Elect Directors.

A stockholders' meeting to elect directors of St. Louis Amusement Co., operator of neighborhood movies, was called for today by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. and Skouras Brothers Enterprises, but was prevented by a temporary injunction granted by Circuit Judge Norton.

The injunction suit was filed by plaintiffs in the receivership of St. Louis Amusement Co. Skouras Bros., which is owned by Warner Bros. and Warner Bros. together own most of the St. Louis Amusement stock. The call for the stockholders' meeting asserted that the president and secretary of St. Louis Amusement had failed to hold it at the regular time last January. Harry Warner, head of Warner Bros., is president of St. Louis Amusement and one of its subsidiaries is secretary.

Counsel for the Skouras Bros. receivers said Warner Bros. declared the meeting ought to be held to facilitate handling certain corporate matters. St. Louis Amusement officers have been suspended under the receivership. Harry Koplar, veteran movie exhibitor, was instrumental in putting St. Louis Amusement and Skouras Bros. in receivership.

OWNERS OF GOLD MINE DIE

IN EXPLORING OLD SHAFT

Action of Water on Rock Is Believed to Have Formed Carbon Dioxide.

By the Associated Press. SONORA, Cal., Nov. 21.—Three men were killed by carbon dioxide gas in the Saratoga Acres Gold Mine, a mile north of here, Saturday night. The victims were George and Reed Watson, brothers, and George Weston Jr., operators of the mine.

Volunteer rescuers penetrated the shaft and recovered the body of Reed Weston, but the deadly gas prevented further progress into the shaft until a state mine rescue crew, equipped with gas masks, arrived from Jackson, 37 miles away, early today.

The bodies were brought to Sonora. Miners said the gas apparently was formed by the action of water on rock.

Authorities said the father and son, with Archie Stout of Hollywood, purchased the mine five months ago, and had been cleaning it out and repairing its timbering in preparation for starting mining operations.

BODIES OF TWO MEN FOUND IN THE LAKE OF THE OZARKS

Drowned Oct. 29 in Upset of Motorboat: Wife of One Still Missing.

By the Associated Press. CAMDENTON, Mo., Nov. 21.—Bodies of Dr. William A. Schutts, Kansas City physician, and Paul I. James of Springfield, Ill., were found yesterday in the Lake of the Ozarks more than three weeks after the men were drowned as a result of the capsizing of a motorboat.

Five duck hunters discovered the bodies on the bank of the Grand Glazie branch of the lake, about a half mile south of the point where the boat upset Oct. 29. The body of Mrs. James, who also was drowned, has not been recovered. Dr. Schutts' wife, a fourth member of the party, was rescued by fishermen.

morning told a reporter the widow of Robert Holthaus resided there. She said the widow was prostrated and too ill to speak to anyone. It was related in the neighborhood that the claimant has a son 4 years old and was married six years ago. The city directory lists Mrs. Minnie Holthaus as living at 2824 Glasgow avenue.

Robert Holthaus, who was 43 years old, was well-to-do. He was a private trader in stocks for individuals, often representing persons with money who liked his judgment of the market. During the depression he had been a bear on the market.

Arthur Holthaus and a sister, Mrs. Myrtle D. Holthaus, resided with him and their mother. The others surviving are Edward D. Holthaus, brother, and Mrs. Corn L. Tobin, sister. Mr. Holthaus died suddenly, supposedly of heart disease, while talking with a business associate in the latter's apartment at Hotel Baum.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Westminster boulevard residence, with private burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

PAGE 4A YOUNG EPILEPTIC ADMITS 3 KILLINGS, ATTACK ON GIRL

Fugitive Youth Tells Chicago Police of Long Series of Crimes, Including Several Shootings.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—James Varucha, 17 years old, who escaped last August from the State Institution for Mental Defectives at Dixon, Ill., confessed last night, police say, that he killed three persons, shot several others and committed several other crimes, including the kidnapping and assault of Miss Lilian Henry, 26.

"If you pin these crimes on me," he said, "I'll say I'm crazy. I've been sent to Dixon twice and you can't get around that." He is an epileptic.

After making his confession last night he calmly smoked a cigarette and then went to sleep in his cell.

Youth Signs Confession.
To a confession of three of the crimes, the authorities said, he signed his name—the slaying of Frank Jordan last Wednesday night; the kidnapping and attack on Miss Henry, and the shooting Nov. 14 of James P. McElligott during an attempted robbery. Jordan was slain as he moved to resist a holdup as he sat in an automobile with Miss Emma Duhane. Miss Henry's attack occurred about a half hour later.

Witnesses identified Varucha as the perpetrator of the crimes. He made verbal confessions to others, police say, including about 20 robberies, the fatal shooting of an old man on the southwest side, and slaying of a Mexican in his home neighborhood.

He admitted Mexicans, Varucha told police, so he shot them. He'd shot perhaps seven of them, he said.

"They got filled up with that marijuana and push you off the sidewalk," complained Varucha.

Cool, defiant, frequently surly, Varucha confessed under what police termed the "fourth degree" technique. His questioners said they appealed to his delusions of grandeur.

Exposed by Sister.
Also instrumental in obtaining his confession was the statement of his sister, at whose home Varucha at first said he was at the time of the South Side crimes Wednesday night. Mrs. Mary Minetti, the sister, denied he had appeared there until Thursday morning and told authorities he had a pistol with him.

"All right," Varucha then said. "You've got me now. If my sister says that, I'll talk."

After the questioning, Varucha posed for photographers, with a cigarette in his mouth. He suggested that touch himself, "to show how cool I am."

Varucha was captured Saturday afternoon in a Loop burlesque theater.

EDWARD LITZINGER, MEMBER OF PIONEER FAMILY, DIES

He Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke at Age of 67 at Home on Litzinger Road.

Edward Litzinger, member of a pioneer St. Louis County family, died of a paralytic stroke yesterday morning at his home on Litzinger road, near Lay road, Deer Creek. He was 67 years old. For the last three weeks he had been ill with a cold.

Mr. Litzinger was born at Price and Clayton roads, the son of John Phillip Litzinger, who came to the county from Germany with his brothers, Christ and Julius. Descendants of the three brothers now number 500 or more, many of them still living in St. Louis County. They are not connected with another family named Litzinger. The Litzinger road, sometimes misspelled Litzinger, was laid out across his farm by John Phillip Litzinger.

Formerly a produce farmer, Edward Litzinger had been in business on Commission Row with his sons for the last 15 years as president of the Litzinger Fruit & Produce Co. He brought about establishment of Rock Hill School No. 2, Litzinger road, near Lay road, about 15 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Litzinger; his sons, Edgar H. Litzinger of Deer Creek and John Milton Litzinger, of Webster Groves; a daughter, Mrs. Clara Longhouser of Webster Groves; a brother, Frederick Litzinger of Maplewood, and four sisters.

The funeral will be at 2 p. m. Wednesday at St. John's Evangelical Church, Melville, with burial in St. Paul's Evangelical Cemetery, Link and Olive street roads.

Major John C. Bryan's Plane Crashes at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—Major John C. Bryan, veteran pilot and a member of the Early Birds' organization, was killed yesterday when his plane crashed from an altitude of about 3000 feet. He was about 40 years old. Spectators say Maj. Bryan was flying on an even keel when a wing of the ship collapsed.

By the Associated Press.
LAWTON, Ok., Nov. 21.—George Conner, 19 years old, of Lawton, was killed and Henry Stannard, 22, licensed pilot, was injured yesterday by the crash of Stannard's plane near here. Farmers said the plane went into a spin at a height of about 300 feet.

MAN SHOTS TWO POLICEMEN

Had Been Firing Wildly in Street; One Officer Dies.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Frank Bielik, 24 years old, was sought today as the man who shot and killed Police Officer Patrick Madden and seriously wounded another officer, Roman Gonschowski.

The policemen had arrested Bielik for shooting wildly on the street when the prisoner whipped out a weapon and opened fire. His wife, Stella, told authorities her husband began shooting up the neighborhood because he was angry at her for having danced with another man at a party.

He killed Mexican, Varucha told police, so he shot them. He'd shot perhaps seven of them, he said.

"They got filled up with that marijuana and push you off the sidewalk," complained Varucha.

Cool, defiant, frequently surly, Varucha confessed under what police termed the "fourth degree" technique. His questioners said they appealed to his delusions of grandeur.

$15,000 JEWELRY BURGLAR IN KANSAS CITY HOTEL LOBBY

Two Men Grabbed Sample Case Which Had Been Left With Desk Clerk.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 21.—Two men snatched 15 persons in the lobby of the Westgate Hotel with revolvers, picked up a jewelry salesman's sample case and the $15,000 contents and escaped in an automobile yesterday.

The sample case had been left at the hotel desk by Samuel R. Schwartz of New York. He said he thought the jewelry was insured. The case had not been put into the hotel safe because it was too large.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, lactatives must not be used. Mother must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one. Doctors will tell you that lactative drops taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they seldom advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is especially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk. If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take. At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

TWO MEN SHOT DEAD IN DETROIT APARTMENT

Third, in Place at Time, Says
He Was Dozing and Knows Nothing.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Nov. 21.—Two men were shot to death in an apartment here yesterday. A third man in the place at the time, held by police as a witness, says he was dozing at the time and knows nothing of what took place.

In a closet in the apartment police found a suit case containing instruments that could be used as burglar tools, a bottle of explosive and a pistol. None of the men has a police record.

The men slain were Max Haensel, 31 years old, and Bruno Scheible, 35. Haensel came here from Columbus, O., last week after a quarrel with his wife.

The third man in the apartment was Martin Scheible, 31, brother of Bruno. He said Haensel was a friend of many years' standing, who had been visiting his brother and himself. He said he knew of no quarrel and could give no explanation of the killings.

"I was half asleep," Martin told detectives. "I heard a shot and then Bruno staggered in from the kitchen and fell over my bed. He had blood on him. I ran into the kitchen and found Haensel on the floor. That's all I know."

Haensel was found dead on the kitchen floor, a pistol under his body. Only one empty shell was found. He had been shot through the temple. Bruno Scheible was shot through the heart.

Police said they were searching for a woman who called them to the apartment shortly after the shooting. They said they did not know who she was, and Martin Scheible insisted no woman had been in the apartment, although a woman's apron was found there.

NIGHT CLUB OWNER ROBBED BY 3 MEN OF $240 AND RING

Oliver Sandel and Albert Franz, Companion in Auto, Forced to Curb on Chippewa St.

Oliver Sandel, 3481 Osage street, and Albert Franz, 4654 Virginia avenue, were held up in the .000 block of Chippewa street, early today by three men in a coupe. The robbers forced the automobile to the curb. Two robbers with revolvers entered the automobile and forced Sandel to drive to Broadway and Hoffmeister avenue, Luxemburg, where they robbed him of $240, a $200 ring and his keys, and took $1 from Franz.

Sandel is proprietor of the Club Diane, 7581 Olive Street road, University City, and was on his way home at the time of the robbery. He quoted one robber as saying, "We know you and we want your money and your sparkler."

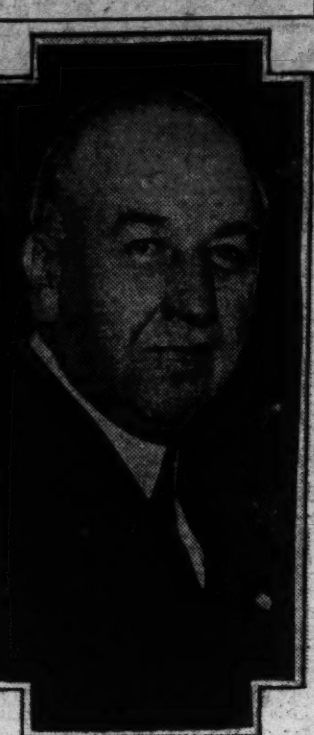

Lee Kersten, proprietor of a bakery at 3130 Easton avenue, and Miss Frances Smith, a clerk, were bound together with bed sheets by two armed Negroes who held up the young woman and forced her to go to Kersten's rooms in the back part of the shop, at noon today. The robbers took $40.

J. L. Hall, operator of an automobile rental agency at 3430 Olive street, and a customer were held up shortly after noon by an armed man who took $50 from Hall.

When William Lally, 6153 Tennessee avenue, was held up by two men in an automobile in Carondelet Park early today, he gave one robber $5.00 and said, "I'm giving you all I have." "All right, then," the robber answered, "I won't take your automobile." The robbers drove away in their own machine.

NEW CORONER TAKES OFFICE IN ST. LOUIS

FRANK P. FURLONG

NEW CORONER BEGINS DUTIES

Coroner Frank P. Furlong, elected in the recent Democratic landslide, assumed the duties of his new office today. Routine of the office will be carried on by the old staff, appointees of Furlong's predecessor, William Dever, until Furlong completes selection of his deputies. To date he has announced but one appointment, that of John J. Sweeney, former member of the Democratic City Committee, to chief deputy.

When Furlong arrived this morning at Coroner's Court, his offices were filled with flowers and friends who called to wish him success.

South Kingshighway Saturday night tossed out a paper bag and a note which read, "Put the dough in the sack and be quick about it." Roy McNall, the attendant, put $19 in the sack and the robber, holding his hand in his pocket as if concealing a weapon, came out and looked the sack. He then had McNall tear the receiver off the telephone, ordered him into the washroom and fled.

Two Pairs Held Up in Park. Lester Senn, 3712 Sullivan avenue; Russell Cobb, 3735 Sullivan avenue, and two young women were held up early yesterday as they were riding in Chain of Rocks Park. An armed man, who said he was a "deputy," ordered them to the side of the road and took $5 from Senn and $2 from Cobb. The women were not molested.

Joseph Mager, 1536A Market street, was walking in the 3600 block of Olive street Saturday night when a man, who held his hand in his pocket, demanded, "Give me your money or I'll kill you!" "You haven't any gun!" Mager said, pulling the hand from the pocket. The man, who was unarmed, broke away and fled.

ROAD WORKER ELECTROCUTED

Struck by Power Line While Riding on Shed Carried by Truck.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Mo., Nov. 21.—Trapped atop a sheet-iron shed chained to the body of a truck, Orval Butler, 22 years old, was killed near here Saturday afternoon when the shed struck a high-voltage power line.

Butler, a Highway Department worker, struggled and died as other members of the truck crew looked on, unable to reach him. His body lay on the charged shed until members of the crew went to Mountain View and telephoned the electric company at Willow Springs to shut off the power. The truck crew was hauling the Highway Department maintenance shed over Highway 60, when, about 4 o'clock, the towering shed struck the line stretched high above the road. The line halted the truck abruptly, and those in the cab escaped the charge.

NEGRO SEIZED BY MOB, LYNCHED IN LOUISIANA

Group of 15 Take Prisoner From Marshal, Victim Accused of Insulting Women.

By the Associated Press. WINNER, La., Nov. 21.—Will Hama House, 26-year-old Negro, was lynched by a band of men who took him from the Winner Town Marshal Saturday. It was disclosed today with the finding of his body suspended from a tree near here.

The Negro was arrested Thursday by Marshal Graham after two young women had complained Hama insulted them. The prisoner was taken to jail at Winnboro by the Marshal for safe-keeping. Saturday afternoon Graham and P. C. Sutton, also of Winner, went to Winnboro and took charge of Hama with the intention of returning him here for trial.

Two miles from Winnboro, Graham said, a band of about 15 men stopped his car and forced him to give up his prisoner and pistol. Sheriff Price of Winnboro said the Negro's body, with two bullet wounds in it, was found hanging from a tree.

Give guesswork the gate

—if you expect long wear from your new suit and overcoat

Here's the quality "watch-dog" that leaves nothing to chance!

We don't trust our own eyes, here at Bond's! The old "look and feel" method of picking quality—mostly guesswork—is taboo! We insist on definitely knowing how far every dollar—yours and ours—will go. The Standard Abrasion Tester pictured above, accurately gives us the facts! It rubs fabrics to show how long they'll wear. We consider 5000 contacts equal to normal wear. But no fabric gets into Bond clothes unless it can stand 6500 rubs! That's more punishment than you'll ever give a suit or overcoat. "Give guesswork the gate"—and do the right thing by your appearance and your pocketbook.

RIVER BOOSTERS FROM 25 STATES IN SESSION HERE

Several Hundred Delegates on Hand for Annual Convention of Mississippi Valley Association.

Waterways for farm relief—"one of the most constructive things which can be done to break up the depression"—were urged by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, at the opening session of the Mississippi Valley Association today at Hotel Statler.

Several hundred delegates had gathered from 25 valley states when the association began its fourteenth annual convention, to conclude tomorrow afternoon with the formulation of its policies for the coming year. Speakers include high army officers, civil engineers, transportation experts, Congressmen and the heads of large organizations as distant as, literally, New York and Texas, Florida and Oregon.

O'Neal pointed out that a "healthy competition" between various types of transportation was more to the shippers' interests than would be a rail monopoly. He compared the high freight costs of the Midwest with a high tariff, discouraging both imports and exports, throttling trade with seaboard industries and preventing the establishment of industrial centers at the great Middle Western sources of raw materials.

The Farm Relief Plan.

"The lands of the northern part of the valley need the phosphates from the lower part of the valley," he said. "Only by cheap transportation can these basic raw materials be moved from one part of our country to another."

The cost of shipping.

"The high transportation cost from the interior of our country has made it difficult for our producers to sell their products in world markets in competition with those of other regions or countries. It costs more to ship a bale of cotton five miles by rail in the Southwest than it does to ship a bale from the South Atlantic ports to Japan via the Panama Canal. Argentina can ship a bushel of corn from the Southern Hemisphere to San Francisco for a little over half what it costs to ship a bushel of corn by rail from the center of the corn belt of the United States to the same point."

O'Neal described charges of Government subsidy of waterway and highway transportation as "foolish talk" and "a myth." He pointed out that the Inland Waterways Corporation had supported itself for eight years and earned a small profit besides setting aside nearly $4,000,000 depreciation, and that motor vehicles paid in taxes three-fifths of the total road income of the United States for construction and maintenance.

Declaring that the demand that waterway and highway construction costs should be charged against the carriers was ridiculous, he said. "Our waterways and highways are built for the public use and convenience. They are available for the use of all the people and for the benefit of all the people. This is quite a different matter"—with reference to railroad subsidies—"from giving land and money to a private corporation which used them exclusively for its private gain."

O'Neal was "amused," he said, when a spokesman for an Association of Commerce in "a city that boasts itself as capital of the Mississippi Valley," issued a list of 150 proposed Government economies, including "more than 70 designed to destroy or seriously hamper work seeking the development of agriculture."

"But most amusing of all," he continued, "this spokesman for the business interests of the Midwest listed in his proposals cuts in appropriations that would effectively stop all inland waterway development. It is unbelievable that a man who is supposed to understand and represent the interests of our Mississippi Valley could have made such a proposal."

Farm Bureau Program.

"I believe that the roughest policy for our nation to follow is to encourage the development of the cheapest and most efficient forms of transportation. Change and adjustment is the inevitable price of all progress. The healthy growth of inland waterway and motor transportation need not destroy the railroads to modern conditions both as to rates and services. Instead, a healthy development of motor and waterway transportation along with an improved rail service should finally result in mutual advantages to all. A healthy competition between different forms of transportation for all classes of traffic will preserve for shippers facilities and rates they hardly could expect from a monopoly."

Says Railroad Cry of Unfairness Is a Smoke Screen.

Theodore Brent, New Orleans traffic counselor, declared that the cry of "unfair competition" was merely a smoke screen across the trail of railroad finance.

Quoting Loree Letter.

Declaring that many eminent railroad men favored a "house-cleaning," he quoted a letter of L. F. Loree, railroad financier, in 1930, asserting that 75,000 buildings, 30,000 stations and thousands of miles of track could be abandoned.

"Unfortunately," Brent continued, "Mr. Loree, like a good many other railroad directors, would go half way in the pruning. The buildings he is going to abandon, the stations he would close, the thousands of miles of track he would tear up, the outmoded equipment he would replace—all represent a large amount of property which, under present conditions, is as obsolete as the stage coach or the horseless carriage of 1900."

"But every dollar of value of this property is written into the capital structure of the railroads, and there is not a single manager or director or financier who has yet had the temerity to face his colleagues and demand that they scale down the capital structure not only to the basis of present values, but more distinctly to the basis of present earning capacity."

The pruning of duplication of service, duplication of terminals, duplication of personnel, is an important step in the solution of the railroad problem, but the first and most necessary step is to revamp the capital structure to a point where the earnings, under present conditions, will yield a return sufficient to pay bond interest and build

Says Railroads Would Sacrifice Millions to Destroy Barge Lines

Gen. Ashburn Declares Rate War Is Only One Phase of Well-planned Attack From Many Angles.

The railroads are prepared to sacrifice millions in a "combined effort" to destroy all water competition, Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, president of the Inland Waterways Corporation, said in St. Louis today.

Gen. Ashburn, who directs the operations of all the Federal barge lines—under fire recently as Government competition against private business—referred to the "sacrifices" entailed by the railroad rate war on barge lines. But that, he said, was only one phase of a well-planned attack from many angles.

The growing violence of the attacks, he remarked, might be explained by the fact that the Federal barge lines were nearing the accomplishment of their pioneering task. He explained that they may soon have the rivers "safe" for private enterprise and retire from the business—a retirement to be delayed only if the tactics of the railroads themselves make it evident that private enterprise could not survive against them.

To Address Valley Group.

Gen. Ashburn is attending the fourteenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association at Hotel Statler, where he expects to take up every criticism of the barge lines and answer it, item by item, in his address tomorrow morning. "I believe it's a condition that they scale down the capital structure not only to the basis of present values, but more distinctly to the basis of present earning capacity."

vinced answer and I know it's a truthful answer," he remarked.

"The barge lines are being attacked on many fronts. The propaganda is put forward that the waterways are hurting the railroads, their stockholders and bondholders, insurance companies, builders of equipment and so on. When all those different elements get that impression, it's fairly easy to organize them into groups, and they're all making attacks from different angles."

"These groups are earnest in their opinions, honest in their expressions. But they don't know the facts. They do not get facts in the propaganda handed out to them."

River Freight Small Item.

"Of course, the attacks concentrate on the Federal barge lines, rather than the private barge lines. That is simply because the Government is blazing the way toward a time when private lines will be secure against such attack."

"The opponents of waterways are perfectly confident that if they kill the Federal barge lines, no other line can stand the gaff. Hence all the shouting about Government in business."

"Our freight is infinitesimal in comparison with the freight handled by the railroads. It is less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of the total freight carried by the railroads in this country, and more than half of it is handled jointly with the railroads. If they lost the equivalent of our total tonnage tomorrow, they'd scarcely notice it."

"Healer" Has 1000 Patients a Day At Barnyard Clinic, Insists He Cures Arthritis by Twist of Foot

Canadian Country Doctor Getting Rich and Medical Association Satirically Calls Him "Miracle Man of 1932."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The American Medical Association has satirized Dr. W. L. Locke, a Canadian country doctor, as the "miracle man of 1932." Dr. Locke, of Williamsburg, Ont., a town of 400 population six miles from the nearest railroad. In the current issue of the Journal of the Association is published a report on Dr. Locke by the Bureau of Investigation of the Association.

Dr. Locke says he cures arthritis (advanced rheumatism) by twisting the arches of the feet. To his barnyard clinic, he has attracted thousands of United States and Canadian sufferers from this disease, as well as victims of partial paralysis of all sorts.

The association attributes Dr. Locke's fame as a healer to word-of-mouth testimonials and "gullible" newspaper men who have been patients at the outdoor clinic.

After estimating that Dr. Locke's income in the last two years has jumped from that of an ordinary obscure country doctor to an amount "in excess of $150,000 a year," the Association's Bureau of Investigation asserts:

"Medical literature contains not a single article by him, so far as a careful search has been able to determine. He seems unwilling to share with other physicians the secret of his 'cure.'"

"He manipulates the first metatarsal, internal cuneiform and scaphoid, with the thumb of one hand against the head of the scaphoid and the other hand holding the first metatarsal. Just what that accomplishes the deponent saith not.

"By the law of averages it is inevitable that a man treating a thousand patients a day by manipulation, and in the psychological atmosphere of such a shrine, would persuade many that they are benefited. In such large groups there must be many psychoneurotics whose inhibitions are lifted by the combined manipulation and psychic reactions of the surrounding circumstances, and who, until the end of time, will testify they have been cured.

"A well known Canadian physician has well summed up the case of Dr. Locke when he wrote:

"I venture to think that in his quiet moments he must smile to himself to realize what a potent influence the press can be; but when the tumult and the shouting dies, he will, no doubt, like many another, pass into oblivion, but with his pockets well lined."

FIRST-HAND STORY OF DOCTOR, AND SCENE AT CLINIC
Editor's Note: Both Canada and the United States have sent out and are sending to Dr. Locke patients in advanced crippled stages. Those pitiful pilgrims, suffering from arthritis and various types of paralysis, go through the pains of long train and motor trips to reach the barnyard clinic of Dr. Locke in a country town of Eastern Ontario, miles from a railroad. There they wait hours sometimes in 'dash and snow for their dollar-a-day treatments. Following is a first-hand account of this strange phenomenon.

By LEIGH MATTESON (International News Service).
WILLIAMSBURG, Ont., Nov. 21.—I stood in eight inches of snow and slush today in a barnyard here, witnessing perhaps the most bizarre medico-religious spectacle ever staged in North America.

In the yard, the barn, a new shed, and overflowing across the narrow sidewalk to the mud road were crammed more than 650 of the most hopelessly crippled men, women and children in the United States and Canada.

I counted nearly 100 in wheel chairs, sunk to the footrests in snow. Others slouched about on crutches or leaning on canes.

For a mile along both sides of the road were parked automobiles. Many were expensive machines with chauffeurs nodding at the wheels. Others were inexpensive, mud-spattered vehicles with drivers absent, wheeling or supporting some afflicted relative.

A personal census disclosed that every state of the United States and every province of Canada was represented in the automobile license tags.

of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.
Until about three years ago he was distinguished on other country doctors only by the fact that he also was a wealthy landowner. Now he is perhaps the most highly paid medical practitioner in the Western Hemisphere—and he never charges a patient more than $1 for a day's treatment.

Individually he treats personally more patients daily than any physician in the world—more, in fact, than many first-class hospitals in large cities.

During July, August and September, this year, it was estimated he personally gave treatments daily to 1400 persons. At $1 each he thus collected $1400 a day, or $42,000 a month.

During October and this month, due to the bad weather and traveling conditions, his practice has slumped until he now makes only a little more than $400 a day.

This amazing profit has been made possible by the slow growth over 14 or 15 years of Dr. Locke's reputation as a "miracle man" in the treatment of arthritis.

The reputation has not been built scientifically, through recognition by his professional colleagues. It grew by a medical "grapevine" route, to use a gangland phrase.

Arthritis is one of the most painful and stubborn diseases afflicting mankind. Almost all the "hail and maled" of the Bible were sufferers from this disease. Little progress has been made in its treatment since those days.

Among one of the most notable victims of the disease in this country today is Dr. John Chalmers da Costa, world-famous Philadelphia lecturer on surgery. For years he has been confined in a wheel chair, absolutely helpless in the grip of a disease which locks every joint in the body.

Will this be America's next Number One Car?

It's a Six—

Power

It's the New Plymouth... a SIX at $60 less than last year! Again "Look at All Three"

JUST a week ago... Walter P. Chrysler announced the new Plymouth Six. Just seven days... but wherever you go... in hotels, clubs, on trains and in theatre lobbies... you hear people say, "Walter P. Chrysler is headed straight for the top."

"The new Plymouth Six is a coming best-seller." "It's bound to be America's next Number One Car."

Clearly, Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers knew what people wanted. They knew that the combination of a six-cylinder engine with Floating Power was unbeatable.

They knew that Americans hate to be crowded... so they made the new Plymouth Six a big, roomy car.

They understood human nature. We all want a car that travels fast... that's thrilling to drive. They made it safer than other low-priced cars... by giving it a safety-steel body... hydraulic four-wheel brakes... a rigid-X double-drop frame... and a safety-glass windshield.

They built it to set new economy records... in gas, oil, tires and upkeep. And, last but not least, they gave people a low-priced car without that "low-priced look."

No wonder Walter P. Chrysler invites you to drive this much talked-about automobile. No wonder he wants your answer to the intriguing question: "Will this be America's next Number One Car?"

Again he says, "Look at the new Plymouth Six! Look at All Three... and may the best car win!"

Analyzes Change in Basic Economic Structure of U. S.

National Bureau Emphasizes Decline in Population Growth and Displacement of Men by Machines.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Basic changes in America's economic structure, changes that caused "a surge forward in industrial productivity" rivaling the industrial revolution of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, are described in a study by the National Bureau of Economic Research, made public today.

Publication of the study, entitled "Economic Tendencies in the United States," written by Frederick C. Mills of the bureau's staff, has been sponsored by the committee on recent economic changes of the President's conference on unemployment.

The committee's membership includes Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Co.; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; and other leaders.

Decline in Population Growth. Among the primary changes in the period 1922-23, recorded by Mills are retardation of population growth, emphasis on the production of durable and capital goods, the maintenance of price disparities and the tremendous increase in the productivity of manufacturing labor.

The population grew at the rate of 2 per cent a year in the pre-war period and 1.4 per cent in the 1922-23 period.

Per head of population, Mills calculates, pre-war and post-war employment were separated from given manufacturing industries. Additions to the number employed averaged 45 to every 1000 on the payrolls of manufacturing plants.

Character of Production. An important change leading to instability was the new emphasis on the production of durable, lasting goods.

Production of this sort of material increased at the rate of 5.9 per cent in the 1922-23 period, while non-durable goods increased at the rate of 2.8 per cent.

Accompanying this expansion were large exports of capital which enabled other countries to buy much from the United States, absorbing part of the nation's extraordinary productivity. At the same time prices of raw materials were low, so that the farmers and other raw material producers did not receive a proportionate share.

or the national income, while those functioning in producing and gained larger profits.

"The economic insecurity, the marked inequalities of distribution, the collapse that crowned the expansion," Mills says, "we must learn to avoid. But the period also brought increasing productivity, an expanding volume of production, an advance in the real rewards of the average man—desirable objectives all, under any economic system."

Four Escape From Marion (Ill.) Jail. MARION, Ill., Nov. 21.—Sheriff G. J. Frick is searching for four prisoners who broke a welded bar at the county jail Friday night and escaped. Nine prisoners in same compartment refused to escape. One of these was Walter Whiting, recently recaptured after a jail break.

KILLED IN FALL ON BATHTUB. Restaurant Keeper Dies in Hospital of Fractured Skull. Louis Botoni, 40 years old, 1629A Chestnut street, died at City Hospital Saturday night of a fractured skull.

Botoni, a restaurant proprietor, was taken to the hospital last Wednesday from his home, where it was said he had fallen and struck his head on a bathtub.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

INTO THE VALLEY OF DEATH
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by John Charlton, after the famous painting depicting the heroic Charge of the Light Brigade in the face of a withering fire at the battle of Balaklava in the Crimean War (1854). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

To be rid of a Cold
ABORT

(Try this with lemon juice)

Often a cold that you thought all you—comes back! That's because the remedy used does not neutralize the cold symptoms. Try the lemon juice treatment, and you'll find those stubborn colds broken-up and gone within a few days. Squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's cold compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will often be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment neutralizes acidity, but you must have the cold compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

GOV.-ELECT PARK CONSIDERS POLICY ON DRY REPEAL

Says He May Propose General Law Providing for Conventions to Pass on Amendments.

SUGGESTS DELAY ON BEER LEGISLATION

Thinks It Better to Wait Until Congress Changes
Volstead Act—Plans No
Wholesale Pardons.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Nov. 21.— Governor-elect Guy B. Park on his return from a two weeks' "resting up trip" to the Gulf coast today began consideration of the recommendations he will make in his inaugural message to the Legislature Jan. 9. Liquor legislation was one of the first subjects taken up.

It is probable the Governor-elect will urge the Legislature to pass a bill providing the machinery for a State convention for action on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to be held immediately on submission of repeal by Congress.

It is virtually certain he will not recommend either repeal of the state non-dry law or its modification in advance of action by Congress on the Volstead Act.

It is settled that he will not in-sue wholesale pardons or paroles on persons now confined in the penitentiary for violation of the state bone dry law.

"I favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment and I favor changes in the State liquor laws to make them uniform to such changes as Congress may make in the Volstead Act," Judge Park said today. "The democratic national and State platforms on which I was elected are in full accord with those expressed in the platform of the provision for a convention at an early date.

"While, generally speaking, I would be opposed to anticipating the action of Congress, I am giving serious consideration to the idea of recommending to the Legislature the passage of a general act which will make possible at any time the convening of a convention to consider any constitutional amendment without the necessity of their calling the Legislature into special session or waiting perhaps many months for a regular session to enact special legislation.

"Missouri has no provision in its laws for such conventions, and I am very much inclined to the opinion that it should have. While, of course, the immediate purpose of such an act would be to bring about quick action on repeal of the eighteenth amendment when it is submitted, it would be a general act that would be available for use at any future time the Congress submitted an amendment to action on state conventions.

"If repeal is not submitted at a short term of Congress it could not be submitted earlier than the spring, and then only in case the President called Congress into special session. Specific action could not be taken in Missouri unless I should convene the Legislature in extraordinary session. That is expensive and should be avoided if possible.

"I do not expect to ask the Legislature to amend the State enforcement act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer in advance of action by Congress.

"My administration is committed entirely and specifically in the platform to immediate change in the State law after the Volstead Act is amended. If that action is taken by Congress before the Legislature adjourns next year, I shall call the Legislature to special session to amend the state law.

"My objection to State action in advance of congressional action is that we do not know exactly what change will be made in the Volstead Act. We must have a State legislative act conforming to the federal law, and as long as the federal law is in a state of uncertainty as to change of the state law. When Congress acts we will carry out the pledge in the city platform."

Discloses Frantic Appeals Made To Wilson and McAdoo for Loans

State Department Publishes Statesmen's Messages That Brought Millions to Fight Submarines and Save Gold Standard.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—European appeals to the United States in 1917 for funds to combat submarines and save the gold standard were even more impassioned than those 15 years later for reconsideration of agreements under which the funds should be repaid.

The frantic messages which resulted in many loans now included in the $11,000,000,000 in war debts owed the United States were made public today by the State Department.

Dispatches of Lord Balfour, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; Walter Hines Page, American Ambassador to London; many other Continental statesmen; and Admiral W. S. Sims, show the pressure under which President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury sanctioned loans of approximately $4,000,000,000 that year to Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia, Belgium and Serbia.

On June 23, 1917, Ambassador Page said: "Financial disaster to all the European Allies is imminent unless the United States Government advances to the British enough money to pay for British purchases in the United States," and added:

"Unless we come to their rescue we are all in danger of disaster. Great Britain will have to abandon the gold standard.

"Anti-submarine craft which cannot be assembled in the submarine zone almost immediately may come too late. There is therefore a possibility that this war may become a war between Germany and the United States alone."

Admiral Sims, special assistant to Page, reported from Queenstown, Ireland, on June 28 that "the war will be won or lost in this submarine zone within a few months."

On April 6, the day the United States declared war against Germany, Page sent to Secretary Lansing a note from Balfour saying:

"Our (the United Kingdom's) power to finance, not merely ourselves, but all our allies, has inevitable limitations and if the burden could be diminished by direct arrangements between the United States and the various allied countries immense assistance would thereby be given towards the efficient conduct of the war."

The report of the American mission, headed by Col. E. M. House, which attended the inter-allied conference of Nov. 23 to Dec. 3 and dated Dec. 15, 1917, was extremely pessimistic.

"The Supreme War Council as at present constituted is almost a farce," the report stated over House's signature.

Tells of Many Difficulties.

"There is but little co-ordination anywhere between the allies," the report continued. "Jealousies are everywhere rife. None of them at heart like one another, and I doubt whether any of them like us. Fortunately, a like condition exists in the central allies. The conference of Nov. 23 to Dec. 3 and dated Dec. 15, 1917, was extremely pessimistic.

GARNER IN CITY DECLARES AGAINST CANCELING DEBTS

On Way to Washington in Response to Roosevelt's Call to Attend Conference With Hoover.

John Nance Garner, Vice President-elect and Speaker of the House, was in St. Louis this morning long enough to be shaved, to express himself as unqualifiedly opposed to cancellation or modification of European debts, and to express the hope that the beer bill and legislation looking toward repeal of the eighteenth amendment would be passed in the approaching short session of Congress.

The outspoken running mate of Gov. Roosevelt is hurrying to the national capital in response to a long-distance call from the President-elect, requesting him to attend the foreign debt conference to be held Wednesday by President Hoover and six ranking members each of the House Ways and Means Committee and of the Senate Finance Committee. This conference will follow that of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow.

"I hated like hell to give up my hunting trip," he said, "but there was no way out of it—and here I am, on my way."

Stops for a Shave.

Speaker Garner arrived on the Katy at 8:25 from his home at Uvalde, Tex., accompanied by Mrs. Garner, a motherly woman, who warned him not to miss their connection with the Big Four train at 9:04.

"Well," he replied, rubbing a chin heavily stubbled with white whiskers, "I've got to get a shave. Don't worry about me. I won't get lost."

Followed by a Post-Dispatch reporter, he hurried to the barber shop. One of the waiting customers gave up his turn, and from his seat in the chair the next Vice President-elect grinned at the reporter, narrowed bright blue eyes and told him to "go ahead."

"I am absolutely opposed to cancellation or modification of the debts the European countries owe us," he said as the barber let down the back of the chair and began lathering his face.

Simple Arithmetic.

"I think the majority of Congress feel the same way and will continue to think so, no matter what is the opinion of President Hoover—or Gov. Roosevelt, either, for that matter. We have more men out of jobs in this country than the European debtor countries have proportionately. Our deficit is as large as they have and perhaps larger. Therefore, why cancel the debts? Looks like a matter of simple arithmetic to me."

As the shaving proceeded, Garner was asked for his opinion on the beer bill and the announced intention of the Democratic party to secure repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that in the short session the House will give a majority to a bill legalizing manufacture and sale of beer. What the Senate will do on the subject I am unable to predict.

Hope for Action on Repeal.

"As for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, I am not ready to say whether the present House can give the necessary two-thirds majority for a resolution calling for the States to pass on the question of removing the amendment from the Constitution. Personally I hope we can get started in a hurry."

Vice-President-Elect and Wife in St. Louis

SPEAKER JOHN NANCE GARNER and MRS. GARNER photographed this morning at Union Station, where they stopped between trains on their way to Washington from their home in Uvalde, Tex.

Mrs. Garner Doesn't Aspire To Be a 'Social Light'

Next Vice-President's Wife Will Continue as His Secretary, and Will Give Only Entertainments Custom Prescribes.

Disclaiming any ambition to be a "social light," Mrs. John Nance Garner, wife of the Vice President-elect, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that her husband was her hobby and she intended to "keep right on being his secretary."

Walking vigorously up and down the Union Station midway, while he was being shaved during a wait between trains, she declared herself to be "a home woman," and said their 10-year-old granddaughter, Genevieve, was the "light and joy of our lives."

"To me, life is duty," she declared, pausing for a second, blue eyes snapping, "and I don't propose to shirk it. I've been Mr. Garner's secretary for 30 years and I hope to continue my work in his office, handling his mail, taking as many routine affairs off his shoulders as I can. Furthermore, we are not going to be social lights. Not at all. It is against the inclination of both of us. People don't elect men to be social lights. I don't see why their wives should consider it necessary. The change in Mr. Garner's official capacity isn't going to alter our personal lives."

Lacks Social Ambition.

"So far as my social activities go, I'm going to be guided by what the President's wife thinks it is necessary to do, and that's all I'm going to do. My only entertainments will be those prescribed by official routine."

Mrs. Garner, whose Texas drawl relieves a decisive manner of speaking, conceded that her official position as the wife of the Vice President would eliminate any questions of social precedence such as arose when Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice-President Curtis, disturbed the serenity of Washington.

"I wouldn't care where I sat at a dinner under any circumstances," Mrs. Garner continued, "and I certainly wouldn't want to be talked about all over the country. Why, even down at the forks of the creeks they are talking about Mrs. Gann."

Mrs. Garner, who was bundled in a thick powder-blue coat and wore a common sense felt hat and stout shoes, said she and her husband would continue to live at a hotel in Washington, use street cars "whenever they are handy," and live within his salary despite a comfortable private income.

Going to Live on Salary.

"We don't just plan to live on my salary," the Vice-President-elect said as he stroved from the barber shop in time to hear his wife's remark, "we are going to do it. We did it when I got $5000 a year and I reckon we can do it now I get $15,000. Shucks, everybody's got to work and everybody ought to live on what he makes."

DEFENDS JAPAN IN MANCHURIA, BEFORE LEAGUE

Spokesman Matsuoka Urges Patience Until His Nation Can Prove "Its Policy of Peace."

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—Defending Japan's course in Manchuria at the bar of the League of Nations Council, Yosuke Matsuoka today rejected the findings of the Lytton Commission and pleaded for the patience of the Western world until his country could prove its policy of peace in the Far East.

His address was similar in all respects to the official "observations" published yesterday as Japan's answer to the Lytton Commission's report, but he finished with a conciliatory appeal which is not to be found in previous Japanese utterances on the conflict with China.

He cited the American punitive expedition of 1916 in Mexico as a fair precedent for Japan's attack "in legitimate self-defense" upon Manchuria in September, 1931.

"We have violated neither the Covenant of League, nor the Nine-Power Treaty, nor the Pact of Paris," he said. "I ask of the Council a little patience. If the Western world will bestow upon us a fraction of the tolerance it has so generously bestowed upon China, it will be gratefully received."

"We Want No War."

"The policy, the hope, the determination of my country is the maintenance of peace. We want no war, we want no more territory, we are not aggressors. Deeply and earnestly we desire the welfare of our great neighbor."

He spoke in English to a distinguished audience, including the five members of the Lytton Commission, among them Gen. Frank R. McCoy of the United States.

SHARP EARTHQUAKE IN WESTERN GERMANY

Window Panes Broken and Furniture Moved—Shock Felt in Holland.

By the Associated Press.
DUESSELDORF, Germany, Nov. 21.—An earthquake shaking the entire Ruhr valley and the lower Rhine region of Germany and Holland awoke inhabitants at 12:40 a. m. today. Window panes were broken and furniture was shifted in many homes.

The shocks were particularly severe in Gladbach-Rheydt, Nymegen (across the border in Holland), and Krefeld. The quake was also felt in the cities of Cologne and Coblenz. Telephone exchanges, fire departments and police were swamped by calls of frightened inhabitants.

The shock upset a lamp at Gladbach-Rheydt, starting a fire. In the Ruhr metropolis, Essen, many inhabitants in the thickly tenanted working class districts rushed to the streets, while others leaned out of windows and asked neighbors what had happened. Many in the streets were afraid to return to their beds.

In nearly all cities of the Ruhr valley mining area, inhabitants asked the same question: whether there had been a mine explosion. Shocks were also felt in the Pennsylvania Governor Thinks, However, It Is Wrong Way to Get Relief.

By the Associated Press.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—Asserting that marches on Washington are not the best way to get Federal unemployment relief, Gov. Pinchot said yesterday that nevertheless he would treat such marchers "precisely as I would treat any other American citizens going about their lawful business."

He said that the State could not provide for them as it did during the first bonus march on the national capital, but that they would not get "the brutal treatment which was inflicted on the bonus army in Washington."

11 YOUNG ITALIANS KILLED ON WAY TO FASCIST RALLY

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Nov. 21.—Eleven young Fascists were killed and 20 injured at a grade crossing near Maccarese, 38 miles northeast of Rome yesterday.

The noise of an approaching train was drowned out by the singing and shouting of 100 youths going to a celebration in three motor trucks.

DEFENDS JAPAN IN MANCHURIA, BEFORE LEAGUE

China, asserted that if Japan's interpretation of the Kellogg pact is correct, the peoples of the world might well wonder what is the use of upholding it.

"If the Japanese version is to be believed," he said, "their country is a meek lamb in the teeth of a ferocious China."

Dr. Koo expressed indignation at the Japanese assertion that China was a disorganized state without responsible government.

"The use of such language in referring to my country, an original member of this League of Nations," he said, "not only reflects a lack of propriety, but also betrays a sense of hopelessness to find a really sound argument for the Japanese case."

Dr. Koo declared that Japan, while never ceasing to complain to the world of a disunited China, persistently pursues a policy preventing unification. There evident is a sense of apprehension that a united China would be a blow to her policy of expansion, her dream of world conquest.

At the outset President Eamon de Valera, President of Ireland, thanked the members of the Lytton Commission for the "excellent manner in which they carried out their functions."

Matsuoka thanked the commission for its arduous labors. He said conditions in China had changed greatly since the Washington conference over 10 years ago.

Says China is Disrupted. "Outer Mongolia has become Sovietized," he said, "Tibet is at war with China, and Turkestan, almost entirely cut off from contact, is potentially a sovereign state."

"The National Government controls by military force alone only several provinces about the mouth of the Yangtze. Canton is independent and hostile, and as the commission reports, there is a menace from another source, namely Communism.

"At the time of the Washington conference there was no threat in China of Communism which was imported by Sun Yat Sen in 1926."

"The Japanese representative recalled the military interventions of other great powers in China and stressed the presence of anti-foreign feeling, declaring 'The National Government works assiduously to instill hatred of foreigners into the minds of the younger generation.'"

Attacks the Boycott. Denouncing the boycott as "warfare of insidious character," the Japanese pictured the distress his people had suffered as a result. "Why is a boycott when it assumes an official or semi-official character not condemned by the League and outlawed?" he asked.

Matsuoka pictured the rule of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin and his son, Marshal Chang Sueh-Liang, as a reign of terror for the Manchurians, under which the Japanese suffered especially during the regime of the younger Chang.

"Even Japanese patience cannot be stretched indefinitely," he said. "The incident of Sept. 18 was the straw which broke it."

The Japanese defender repeated

points in which Japan disagreed with the Lytton Commission, and it was the nearly unanimous opinion in League quarters that the Japanese position had not been changed.

The Japanese denied they were responsible for an attack on the night of Sept. 18, 1931, charging instead that Chinese troops attacked after an explosion on the South Manchuria Railway. The explosion, they said, was of Chinese origin.

The Mukden incident led to a military campaign that brought Manchuria under Japanese military control.

The formation of the new State of Manchukuo, the Japanese stated, was not the work of the Japanese officials, but was "genuine, spontaneous, popular and natural."

Cites U. S. Action. As for Japanese military action, the Japanese document quoted the United States resolution passed when the Briand-Kellogg pact was ratified, to the effect that:

"It is well understood that, to exercise the right of self-protection may and frequently does extend beyond the limits of territorial jurisdiction of the state exercising it."

China, asserted that if Japan's interpretation of the Kellogg pact is correct, the peoples of the world might well wonder what is the use of upholding it.

"If the Japanese version is to be believed," he said, "their country is a meek lamb in the teeth of a ferocious China."

Dr. Koo expressed indignation at the Japanese assertion that China was a disorganized state without responsible government.

"The use of such language in referring to my country, an original member of this League of Nations," he said, "not only reflects a lack of propriety, but also betrays a sense of hopelessness to find a really sound argument for the Japanese case."

Dr. Koo declared that Japan, while never ceasing to complain to the world of a disunited China, persistently pursues a policy preventing unification. There evident is a sense of apprehension that a united China would be a blow to her policy of expansion, her dream of world conquest.

At the outset President Eamon de Valera, President of Ireland, thanked the members of the Lytton Commission for the "excellent manner in which they carried out their functions."

Matsuoka thanked the commission for its arduous labors. He said conditions in China had changed greatly since the Washington conference over 10 years ago.

Says China is Disrupted. "Outer Mongolia has become Sovietized," he said, "Tibet is at war with China, and Turkestan, almost entirely cut off from contact, is potentially a sovereign state."

"The National Government controls by military force alone only several provinces about the mouth of the Yangtze. Canton is independent and hostile, and as the commission reports, there is a menace from another source, namely Communism.

"At the time of the Washington conference there was no threat in China of Communism which was imported by Sun Yat Sen in 1926."

"The Japanese representative recalled the military interventions of other great powers in China and stressed the presence of anti-foreign feeling, declaring 'The National Government works assiduously to instill hatred of foreigners into the minds of the younger generation.'"

Attacks the Boycott. Denouncing the boycott as "warfare of insidious character," the Japanese pictured the distress his people had suffered as a result. "Why is a boycott when it assumes an official or semi-official character not condemned by the League and outlawed?" he asked.

Matsuoka pictured the rule of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin and his son, Marshal Chang Sueh-Liang, as a reign of terror for the Manchurians, under which the Japanese suffered especially during the regime of the younger Chang.

"Even Japanese patience cannot be stretched indefinitely," he said. "The incident of Sept. 18 was the straw which broke it."

The Japanese defender repeated

points in which Japan disagreed with the Lytton Commission, and it was the nearly unanimous opinion in League quarters that the Japanese position had not been changed.

The Japanese denied they were responsible for an attack on the night of Sept. 18, 1931, charging instead that Chinese troops attacked after an explosion on the South Manchuria Railway. The explosion, they said, was of Chinese origin.

The Mukden incident led to a military campaign that brought Manchuria under Japanese military control.

The formation of the new State of Manchukuo, the Japanese stated, was not the work of the Japanese officials, but was "genuine, spontaneous, popular and natural."

INTERVENORS CHANGE PLEA, JOIN IN RECEIVERSHIP SUIT

Court Permits Action by Holders of $250,000 of Simmons Hardware Gold Notes.

Seven persons holding $250,000 in face amount of gold notes of the Associated Simmons Hardware Companies, who had intervened in a receivership suit against the companies, as defendants in opposition, today asked Circuit Judge Norton for permission to change their plea and appear as plaintiffs joining in the request for a receiver.

Their attorney, John S. Leahy, told the court that since the institution of the receivership suit the trustees under a deed of trust securing the companies' note issue had declared a default in interest payment making possible a foreclosure action. Foreclosure, he said, would diminish value of the companies' properties and would injure the bondholders.

Judge Norton said he would permit the filing of the plea. The intervenors are Duncan Meier, Mrs. Emily L. Meier, Mrs. Charlotte T. Myers, Mrs. Lillian Pierce, Mrs. Mary Stanley Finch, Edward S. Picher and Clarence Robbins.

The receivership petition, brought by Leopold Block of Chicago, charged that the First National Bank in St. Louis and the Chase National Bank of New York improperly used their position as trustees for their own gain to the disadvantage of bondholders.

SLAYER TRAPPED, KILLS SELF AFTER DESPERATE FIGHT

One Officer Seriously Wounded as He Throws Tear Gas Bomb in Attack at Mt. Orab, Ohio.

FUGITIVE SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF SHERIFF

He Also Had Killed Persons in Iowa and Missouri — Machine Gun Fails to Dislodge Him.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 21.—James Burris, 35-year-old slayer of three persons, shot and killed himself yesterday after a desperate fight with more than 20 officers. He had been trapped in a house in the center of Mount Orab, a small town 30 miles east of here.

Burris shot himself through a temple while Deputy Sheriffs from three Ohio counties and detectives from Indianapolis stormed the dwelling with a machine gun, rifles and tear gas bombs.

One of the attackers, Capt. Lynn Black, 36, head of the Hamilton County police, was shot in the abdomen as he stepped in front of a window after throwing a tear bomb into a door, and was in a serious condition today.

Burris, alias Webster and Walker, was found in the house of a Mount Orab friend after a manhunt in Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky which began Oct. 2 when he shot and killed Sheriff Roy Compston of Rush County, Indiana, who had sought to arrest him on a liquor charge. The killer escaped, other officers that time by jumping out of a second-story window.

Burris, according to police records, was a fugitive from the Iowa state penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for the murder of Mrs. Eric Rose near Boone, Ia., and had served time for second-degree murder in Missouri.

A scene like war was enacted at Mount Orab as the more than 20 officers sought to dislodge the cornered slayer, while half of this town's 550 population looked on from behind shelter. While searchlights played on the building from every side, the officers poured lead into the windows. A machine gun kept up a steady stream of fire from one location and deputies crouched behind trees and corners of nearby buildings armed with pistol and rifle. Now and then an officer would dash into the open to throw a tear bomb and then dash back to shelter.

Finally a shot was heard inside the house, and creeping cautiously inside, officers found Burris dead, a pistol from which four shots had been fired beside him.

The tenant of the house, Vernie Armentrout, was arrested on a charge of harboring a fugitive. When the officers arrived, they made Armentrout remove his wife and four children from the house, instructed him to ask Burris to surrender. Burris refused and the fight began.

MARION TELVA SINGS AGAIN AT HER OLD CHURCH HERE

Metropolitan Opera Company Star Makes Unannounced Appearance at Second Presbyterian.

Marion Telva, prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was soloist yesterday at the morning service of Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. It was a homecoming for her, as she was soloist at the church for several years before 1920. Though her appearance had been unannounced, the church auditorium was crowded.

Miss Telva, who appeared with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra last week, sang two numbers, "Gloria," by Buzzi-Peccia, and "Liber Christus," from "Requiem," by Verdi. She was accompanied by C. Albert Schollin, church organist. Immediately after her numbers, Miss Telva left the church to take a train for New York.

CITY ASKED TO FEED 250 'HUNGER MARCHERS' NOV. 28

Mayor Sends Secretary to Talk to Committee of 10; Lodgings Also Sought.

A committee of 10, five of them Negroes, called on Mayor Miller today to ask that lodging and food be provided for 250 members of the "National Hunger March" contingent scheduled to arrive in St. Louis Nov. 28, en route to Washington.

The Mayor pleaded the press of business however, and sent out his secretary, Thomas Muldoon, to deal with the committee.

The spokesmen, Ralph Shaw, a Communist organizer, and William Guest, 1846 Menard street, organizer of the Workers' Ex-Servicemen's League, made half a dozen suggestions for relief and Muldoon referred them to half a dozen agencies which included the Board of Education, the State authorities, Comptroller Nolle, the Board of Aldermen, the relief agencies and the Juvenile Court.

He told the committee he would give them some sort of an answer at 11 a. m. tomorrow on their request that the old Courthouse be used to house the hunger marchers. His answer would be given after consultation with the Comptroller, he said.

ROBINS AGAIN FAILS TO RECOGNIZE WIFE

In Sanitarium, He Regards His Identification as a "Monstrous Error."

By the Associated Press.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 21.—Regarding the interruption of his scheduled life in the mountains as a "monstrous error," Col. Raymond Robins was in a sanitarium here today, where physicians hope rest and quiet will reopen to him his life before last September.

The wife of the noted dry crumbler visited him today, but each time he failed to recognize her.

"He feels that we have made a tragic mistake in identification," said John Dreier, a nephew, who recognized his uncle last Friday. Robins had been prospecting in the mountains of Western North Carolina virtually since his disappearance Sept. 8.

"However, he has resigned himself to the situation," Dreier continued, "believing apparently that he may soon convince his friends and Mrs. Robins that he is not Col. Robins and be free again to assume the peaceful life at Whit-tier he learned to love so well."

Dr. M. A. Griffin, who has charge of the sanitarium, explained it would be several days before a complete diagnosis could be made. Rest and quiet, he added, are essential, and Robins has expressed a wish "to be let alone."

Robins was visited by his wife, who rushed here from Florida when her husband was found, for a second time yesterday, but he gave no sign of recognition. He is still heavily bearded and wearing the overalls in which he tramped the mountains, looking for minerals.

"We had a pleasant friendly chat," Mrs. Robins said after leaving her husband yesterday, "but he did not recognize me."

"Aside from his inability to recall events beyond the time he reached Whit-tier," she explained, "he is well and healthy in every way."

GANGSTER SLAIN AS HE WRITES BOOK 'EXPOSING' UNDERWORLD

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A book that Francis Anthony Fabrizio was writing to "expose the underworld's four hundred" will never be finished, because the author was shot and killed last night. Around him in his Brooklyn flat were seated his mother, father, brother and sister.

While he wrote as a lawyer friend, helping with suggestions, "Society has its four hundred," Fabrizio wrote, "and the underworld, too, has its four hundred. I know who the underworld's four hundred are—that they are doing and what they intend to do. I intend to write a book exposing the whole system."

While he wrote there was a knock at the door and three men strode into the room. "We are detectives," they said, pointing at Fabrizio. "We want you." They dragged him into the hall and, as his mother and sister screamed, fired four bullets into his body. Then they joined two lookouts posted outside and drove away. Police confiscated the manuscript.

Detectives said Fabrizio served two terms in Sing Sing Prison for burglary and assault and one in Elmira Reformatory.

The Secret of Popularity
You want to be popular, don't you?
All your life you've wanted to be popular. Worked and worried constantly to make yourself magnetic. Watched with bitter envy the success of other people who seem to succeed without an effort, where you fail in spite of all your hard labor.
And your longing hasn't been born merely of conceit. It has come from something much deeper than personal vanity. You've felt that you needed popularity; needed it as you've needed food and water and clean air.
For what's life worth if one can't win affection and admiration? If one hasn't some power over other lives?
Yet, how to get it?
How do other people get it?
You wonder bitterly. What mysterious charm have they, in themselves, which you lack? What trick of gesture? What "line" of talk? And where can you learn the same tricks, the same line?
You can't learn them anywhere, and they wouldn't do you any good if you could. For popularity isn't based on a set of tricks, nor do we charm others by a slick "line."
Why are some people popular? You can answer that for yourself. Stop and think. Why do you like certain people? Why do you seek such people out, yet remain indifferent to others who seem equally worthy?
Is it because those popular people have something in themselves which you admire?
OR IS IT BECAUSE THEY GIVE SOMETHING TO YOU WHICH YOU DESIRE?
It's because they give you something, isn't it? Because they do something to you; provide you with something you need; fulfill some secret dream.
POPULAR PEOPLE MAKE YOU FEEL AT EASE.
That's a wonderful sensation. You need, terribly, to feel at ease. For you're always a bit bewildered and afraid of showing it. But some people make you forget your self-consciousness. They're strong and quiet in themselves. If they have personal problems, they don't show them. They are comfortable and easy. Their casual quietude is their own edginess. Soon you're talking without effort, enjoying yourself, acting at your best.
POPULAR PEOPLE AMUSE AND EXCITE YOU.
You need that, too. Life has become a dreary and discouraging affair. You're sick of your monotonous job. You want to get out of your rut, but you haven't the money to go away, either.
But they know how to find fun and drama in the common scene around them, and they pass it on to you. Life sparkles when you're with them. You see things differently. Your imagination comes awake. You have new curiosity, new desire to live. You feel warmed and stimulated.
AND POPULAR PEOPLE MAKE YOU BELIEVE IN YOURSELF.
You need that most of all. You've lost confidence. So many people have criticized you, doubted your ability. But here's someone who doesn't. Here's someone who treats you as if you were wonderful. Once you, too, believed that you were wonderful. And when you believed that, you could do almost anything. Now that old, fighting faith comes back. You're grateful! You're so grateful you'd do anything for that kindly, believing soul who has restored your faith in yourself.
Why are people popular? That's why.
Not because they are something in themselves. Not because they are pretty, or handsome, or smart, or easy, or successful, or wear lovely clothes, or have gone to romantic places.
These things don't make people popular. These things wouldn't make you popular, even if you could achieve them all.
POPULAR PEOPLE ARE POPULAR, NOT FOR WHAT THEY HAVE IN THEMSELVES, BUT FOR WHAT THEY GIVE TO THE OTHER FELLOW.
WHAT HAVE YOU TO GIVE THE OTHER FELLOW?
How much do YOU owe his confusion; relieve his boredom, strengthen his faith in himself? Answer that and you'll know the extent of your own popularity—or the secret of your unpopularity.

Here's How to Spend Your Dollar for Food
If you are trying to cut the family food bill and keep up the family health at the same time, the Bureau of Home Economics at Washington suggests this proportion of expenditures for every dollar:
One-fourth for milk, one-fifth for vegetables, another fifth for cereals, bread, beans; one-fifth for fats and sugars, and the rest for other foods such as eggs, meat, fish and the usual staples such as salt and coffee.

Latest in BLACK and WHITE BRIDGE

by P. HAL SIMS

Left, a hostess gown of white crepe with a large-sleeved jacket of black. Right, tailored pajamas of white crepe. The model is KATHLEEN BURKE of the movies.

P. Hal Sims is acclaimed the greatest contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won 20 national championships since 1924.

The Leeway Principle
The time has come to introduce to you a bidding principle which has been known for years, but is not found in any other system and is in fact condemned by many experts on the grounds that it is deliberately lacking in precision and that it inflicts a needless guess on the partner. They admit that it has some how not proved to be an insurmountable obstacle to the winning of championships, in our hands, but maintain that it is too difficult for the average player to learn or employ safely. I will leave it to my readers to judge the validity of these "criticisms."

When the partner of the opening bidder immediately jumps the bid to within one of game, that is a forcing bid, which the opener may not pass unless his own opening bid was a psychic. This discretion is allowed to the opener, so as to protect psychic or near-psychic third-hand opening bids.

In connection with the two-trump response, you have already had this principle explained to you. A jump take-out in another suit is always a force, and is not under discussion here. I am now concerned with the jump raise in partner's suit. This is a force under just the same conditions as the two-no-trump response.

WHAT THE JUMP RAISE MEANS
If you open with one heart and respond with three hearts, I am giving you the following message: "Unless your bid was a psychic we are apparently sure to make four hearts on this hand." A slam is not out of the question if you have additional values and our hands fit each other in their holdings outside hearts. I have four hearts for you; if you can make some positive informative bid, please do so. Otherwise bid four hearts, which is a major-suit take-out.

SEND OUT YOUR LINE OF SCOUTS
This leeway method gives an added chance to feel out slam possibilities without endangering the game contract, in the inevitably difficult situation when the responding hand has no suit in which to take-out, but nevertheless realizes that he has potential slam material and that a game in the opener's suit is practically sure. By bidding one short of game, he gains a whole round of bidding and enables the slam try to be recognized without the partnership being driven to bid beyond game if the hands do not show a slam fit. Duplications of values are invariably uncovered. Sometimes the contract will be carried to five or six in a major suit—but that should only be when this contract is quite safe, and there is a play for six, but the bidding has failed to show the slam as a good bidding chance.

A hand that my wife played last week illustrates this latter contingency.

Mrs. Sims, South, bid one spade on Sp. A 9 J x x x. D 9 x x. H 8 7 6 5. C 10 9 8 7. South, having only three primary tricks and no second suit, signed off with four spades. North, however, with his singleton and two aces, still had slam hopes if the opener had three and one-half tricks regardless of second suit, and he took this chance by bidding five spades, which my wife rightly passed. Had her queen of diamonds been the king, that would have been her justification for bidding six spades, which would be made with this holding. Had South held Sp. A Q J x x. D 9 x x. H 8 7 6 5. C 10 9 8 7, her response should be three no-trumps and North would then bid five spades, which South must pass. Only if East holds both kings and jacks of diamonds and West has the ace of hearts, can this contract be set.

Tomorrow—Requirements for a jump raise.

A French dressing on dry hot greens may be just as delicious as when the vegetable is served cold in the form of a salad.

APPAREL fashions need not think that they have a corner on copper while flashing copper buttons, buckles and beads. Homes insist upon their share of this versatile metal. Housewives no longer refer disparagingly to "the old copper kettle" but give it a prized place among their cooking utensils. Tea and smoking things likewise appear in metal dress, some of them so interesting that even though you may buy them originally for gifts, you'll end up by keeping them for yourself.

For a woman who finds brown her most becoming shade, and has learned that white is her next best, there are some slick looking evening gowns heralding the beauty of this color scheme. The dresses are of white, either hammered satin or crinkled crepe, and the brown is introduced by bands of fur. One with the high-front and low-back type of neck that I espied in a smart shop the other day had epaulettes to the waistline made of Kolinsky fur. A buckle of the fur repeated the color note. And even though this dress had a most expensive look, the price tag told a different story.

Sweaters have joined the convalesces, and if they keep up with the pace they have started, before long they will have as many parts as automobiles and dresses. The newest trick of sweaters is to have an extra gulch, thereby giving itself either a high-neck or a low-neck appearance. The gulches have the high necks and are worn over a low-necked sweater quite ingeniously.

A sports dress that is really pretty without losing any of its dash subscribes to the vogue of suede-finished knit which I suppose you've heard about. The shade is medium blue which means it is not bright enough to put your eyes out like some of the season's blues. The skirt is cut quite straight of line but the blouse has some tricky details. There is a square neck for one thing, but the sleeves are what get your attention. The upper sections are of lace knit in shades of blue, yellow and white, cut quite full and gathered into long, tight cuffs.

I fell in love immediately with a quaint hat and collar set which I saw in a millinery shop display. For this set was made entirely of that old favorite, southeaster braid. And you might know

Here is a young-looking blouse for a woman of any age to wear. It is of corduroy in that flattering off-white shade which we know as eggshell. A triangular front panel has a fabric bow, and there is a little turn-over collar to take years off a face.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

Scoring the Toadster
"I'm just about to see in my front porch," Willy Nilly told Old Toad. This time Willy Nilly had made up his mind that he would attend to his own work. "Of course you must," said Old Toad, as he tried to make up his mind whether he would yawn or swallow a fly which had taken a seat upon his nose. He decided he would do both and succeeded very well in having a yawn of a meal and a good yawn at the same time. "But then," Old Toad continued, as he blinked his big eyes, "you have the whole long winter in which to attend to everything. I did want your help in putting my automobile away for the winter. You see, I won't bother you for a long, long time, as we Toads must have our good winter sleep. We're not healthy otherwise."

Willy Nilly knew that the Toad would not give the toadster car the proper attention unless he helped them, and it was quite true that it was the last thing he could do for them for some time.

"I'll tell you what," he said. "I'll make a bargain with you. I'll let you put your car away for the winter, and then, before you go to sleep you fix some plasters for me so my ears will be made straight while you sleep."

"It's a bargain!" grunted Old Toad.

So Willy Nilly followed the Toad in his quarter-of-a-cylinder roadster-toadster down to Toadstown. "We'll store the car in the trunk of that very big old willow tree," Willy Nilly said, and all the Toads helped in putting the car inside. Then they gathered leaves and branches and covered the car so the snow would not hurt it during the winter months.

If a girl is clever she is certain to have a crocheted neck, especially about her head and shoulders. Art needlework departments make a practice of telling her how it is done. But the sports shops with their collections of what look like handmade things can tell her a few things, too. Crocheted berets of fuzzy yarns have a look that is more than warm. And every beret needs its own high-necked cape or scarf.

Just because a dress happens to fall within the jumper classification is no sign that it was designed exclusively for utility, or that it is a young girl's style. For jumper dresses are listed among the sophisticates. I saw one of black velvet, its waistline draped to give it a moulded line and a jeweled clip adorning its low V neck. The gulches to be worn with it were of white mousseline, as sheer and dainty as anyone could ask for. Another jumper without age limitations was of sheer wool, its color pavement gray and its gulches brown satin.

Women who have turned up their noses and walked right past the neckwear counters with their fascinating displays of high neck collars, now should pause and take a good look at the good news to be found there. Collars now present a versatile appearance for many of them can be worn either high or low. Designers have decided that too many women would not wear their collars buttoned close about the throat so in order to make business better and more woman satisfied, they present these double-duty collars.

Every dog must have his day. But the Scottie is not satisfied with a week or even a year. Scottie novelties appear with frequency, and with holiday merchandise on display there are more than ever before. Book-ends, paper weights, ash trays and smoking stands, key rings and even desk sets are some of the items which pay tribute to this favorite of the canine world.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I WAS sorry to see in your column a letter from a woman who seems to have lost her faith in Christianity and in man, because of financial reverses. I am afraid all were as resentful we would make it pretty hard for anybody to live now.

For years I have been an invalid through a complication of diseases. I have been confined to the house. But why should I hold a grudge toward God or man? "Reverend," certainly, we are struggling hard to save our home.

What letters you get! Could you ever dream of some of them? Such lack of Christianity and understanding. I want to offer my advice. Keep on, Mrs. Carr. I am sure your frank and honest opinions. My boy is writing you today, too.

MRS. A. D. G.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:
I cannot ask you to answer by mail as my husband opens a mail and looks at it first. I cannot have all this printed, because the wrong persons would recognize but I am willing to trust to your discretion.

I am rather young and, unhappily, have fallen in love with a relative of my husband, who is good deal older.

My husband has always been different to me, and unkind. He has always been in such a hurry to get away from the house that he has no time to look at me or at our three children.

When his uncle began to visit he praised my cooking and would stay, for hours and help enter into my plans. Then he got busy and I seldom see him. I am miserable in my home again and I find that I love this man, but even if I were free to marry, wouldn't it feel as if I were betraying my husband? I should create a scandal. I feel could never overcome it. I am sure the relative would marry me, either, if I obtained a divorce. There is no chance of happiness here.

Around me I see women living with worse husbands and I am sure they never think of another man. How can I overcome this crazy love for a man who gives me no hope?

MELANCHOLY.

In your disappointment over the discovery that married life is not just one continuation of the home in some, perhaps, you have enjoyed the role of "neglected wife." You did not cast yourself in it deliberately. I am sure, but you have allowed self-pity to encourage the idea. Likely this relative appears on the scene at just the dramatic moment, and the idea of besting your affection upon this polished gentleman of leisure is appealed to you. This is only guess, of course.

Have you ever thought that your husband may be of very practical turn of mind, possibly a little worried by present conditions and somewhat absorbed in his work. This type will take wife and children for granted and never dream that it is necessary to have the cooking, or stop to coddle the children. You are his, and he is his, and you ought to know it. You want to know if he would leave you?

Of course, this isn't exactly the girl's idea of devotion. Women are sentimental (and sometimes little moony) and it is only by that they should expect some show of affection. At the same time, to adapt yourself and know that your husband's affection may be none the less deep, for being unexpressed.

The man's attitude shows that you are likely allowing your imagination too much scope, and that he stays away may be a good indication that he has no love and wants to give you a little time to come to your senses. Of course the age would make a difference, he is much too old for you.

Dear Martha Carr:
I AM 23 years old, married and have four lovely children; although no fault of my husband's, he lost his job early in spring.

We have since lost all, or nearly all, of our furniture. We were especially appreciate a bed, my little children have to sleep on the floor, and it is getting so cold I am afraid it will make them sick. My husband will gladly come and get anything, anywhere in the city. Please do not print my name and address.

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I RECEIVED your lovely letter and am so glad you have had a little vacation. I was glad I could send the girl at the hospital a light-weight summer dress, a pair of all-wool hose, gloves and all-wool cap. I was sorry I couldn't buy them because I was so poor, but I am suffering much from the depression. I tried to get

A Blue Plate
HARMER JOHN, in the Walpole novel of that name, one day saw a blue plate in a shop window—"one of those deep blues like the sea." He thought it the most beautiful color he had ever seen, so he bought it and took it home. It was the beginning of a new era in his career. In fact it started a revolution, and did not stop until it had turned his life upside down.

In less than half an hour the Blue Plate made the mantle-piece look shabby, so he went out and bought two pictures to put beside it. In the evening he was looking up at the plate, and the rug in front of the fire was so faded that he was ashamed of it. In the morning he went out and bought a new rug, a good one, purple color to go with the plate. Nor did the revolution end there. Old shabby things were cleared out right and left, upsetting the whole house.

Indeed, he had "a terrible time," as he admits in telling us about it. It was like a fever. It spread to his other rooms, then to his clothes, then to the view out of his windows. His flat looked on to a blank wall, ending in nothing. He changed the flat and got another that looked over the water and the trees. His whole outlook—in more senses than one—was changed by the advent of the blue plate; not only his outlook but his way of thinking.

The Blue Plate may take many shapes, since beauty wears myriad robes. It may be a blue plate at all, but a tiny bit of garden in an ugly village, a window-box in a dismal slum dwelling, a blooming flower in a dark basement, an engraving in a back room off a mean street; a book, a poem, a picture, a piece of music, a friendship, a spiritual experience, an old memory or a new love—a touch of beauty in any of its lovely forms can alter the inner attitude as well as the outlook of a man, and transform his life.

An Eastern proverb puts it picturesquely: "If you have two

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Ingo Galatison, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Diathermy
ONE of the effects of passing an electric current through a conductor is the production of heat. This phenomenon is employed in what is known as diathermy, a form of electricity treatment variously applied in medicine.

In diathermy an electric current of high frequency is passed through body tissues, thereby producing internal heat.

The current used in diathermy is not shock-producing, and when properly administered the patient feels only a pleasant sensation of warmth.

Contrasted with ordinary house circuits using current of 60-cycle frequency, the current in diathermy has a frequency of oscillation—wave-like flow—of approximately 1,000,000 cycles per second.

The ordinary diathermy treatment is given by the application of electrodes to the body of the patient wherever the heating effect is desired.

These electrodes are connected with the diathermy machine and a completed circuit thereby established through the patient's body.

Small portions of the body, such, for example, as a joint or an extremity, may be treated, in which case only the temperature of the treated part is raised, the body temperature remaining the same. Again, the entire body may be treated.

Heat production by means of diathermy may be utilized to secure a variety of effects.

Thus, by the use of the proper kinds of currents and electrodes such intense heat may be produced as to cause the destruction of tissues. Electro-decathesis is thus produced.

This type of treatment is used in the removal of such things as warts, moles and certain types of bladder tumors.

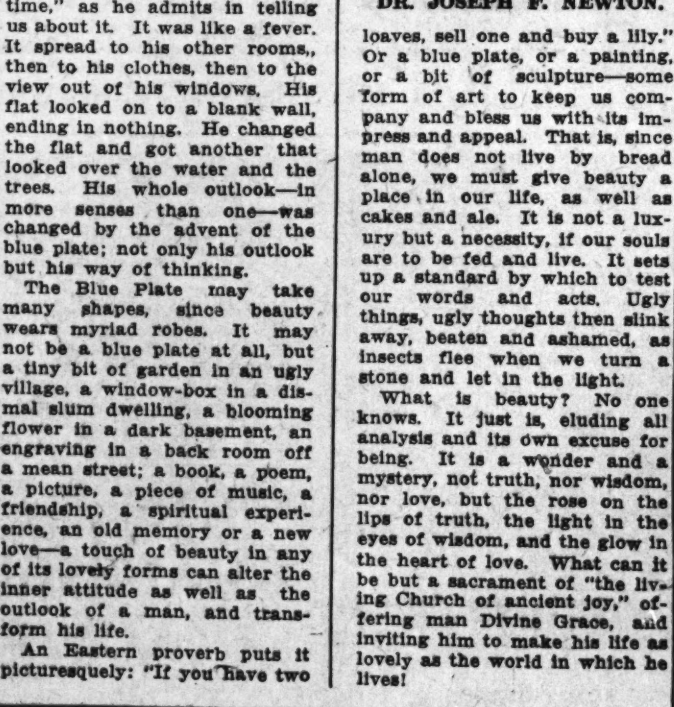

Electro-coagulation is another type of diathermy application employed in dealing with certain cancerous growths.

A still further use of the diathermic principle appears in the so-called electrical cutting current giving what has been called the "radio knife."

loaves, sell one and buy a lily." Or a blue plate, or a painting, or a bit of sculpture—some form of art to keep us company and bless us with its image and appeal. That is, since man does not live by bread alone, we must give beauty a place in our life, as well as cakes and ale. It is not a luxury but a necessity, if our souls are to be fed and live. It sets up a standard by which to test our words and acts. Ugly things, ugly thoughts then sink away, beaten and ashamed, as insects flee when we turn a stone and let in the light.

What is beauty? No one knows. It just is, eluding all analysis and its own excuse for being. It is a wonder and a mystery, not truth, nor wisdom, nor love, but the rose on the lips of wisdom, the light in the eyes of wisdom, and the glow in the heart of love. What can it be but a sacrament of "the living Church of ancient joy," offering man Divine Grace, and inviting him to make his life as lovely as the world in which he lives!

It's probably because you lack good resistance

Have you noticed that common winter ills usually attack when your resistance is low?

They start now, at this time of year, when outdoor exposure and stuffy indoor living tax your vitality.

One of the simplest, easiest means is provided by Squibb Adex Tablets-100.

Squibb Adex, a new concentrate of the vitamins of cod-liver oil, supplies the factor which contributes so much to good general resistance—Vitamin A.

People who get an abundance of Vitamin A daily are fortified with added resistance. Each Adex tablet contains as much as one teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

by Mary Graham Bonner

Storing the Toadster
"I just about to fix my front porch," Willy Nilly told Old Toad. This time Willy Nilly had made up his mind that would attend to his own work. "Of course you must," said Old Toad, as he tried to make up his mind whether he would swallow a fly which had taken a seat upon his nose. He decided he could do both and succeeded very well in having a quarter of a meal and a good yawn at the same time. "But then," Old Toad continued, as he blinked his big eyes, "you have the whole long winter in which to attend to everything, and I did want your help in putting my automobile away for the winter." "You see, I won't bother you for a long, long time, as we Toads must have our good winter sleep. We're not healthy otherwise," Willy Nilly knew that the Toad would not give the toadster the proper attention unless he helped them, and it was quite true that it was the last thing he could do for them for some time. "I'll tell you what," he said, "I'll make a bargain with you, I'll help you to put your car away for the winter, and then, before you go to sleep you fix some plasters for me so my ears will be made straight while you sleep." "It's a bargain!" grunted Old Toad.

So Willy Nilly followed the Toad in their quarter-of-a-cylinder, roadster-toadster down to Toadtown. "We'll store the car in the trunk of that very big old willow tree," Willy Nilly said, and all the Toads helped in putting the car inside. Then they gathered leaves and branches and covered the car so the snow would not hurt it during the winter months.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I WAS sorry to see in your column a letter from a woman who seems to have lost her faith in Christianity and in man, because of financial reverses. I am afraid if all were as resentful we would make it pretty hard for anybody to live now.

For years I have been an invalid; through a complication of diseases I have been confined to the house. But why should I hold a grudge toward God or man? Reverses? Certainly. We are struggling hard to save our home.

What letters you get! Could one ever dream of some of them? Such lack of Christianity and understanding. I want to offer my praise. Keep on, Mrs. Carr, I admire your frank and honest opinion. My boy is writing you today, too. — MRS. A. D. G.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:
I CERTAINLY have a problem. But I cannot ask you to answer by mail as my husband opens all mail and looks at it first. I cannot have all this printed, because as wrong persons would recognize me I am willing to trust to your discretion.

I am rather young and, unhappily, have fallen in love with a relative of my husband, who is a good deal older.

My husband has always been different to me, and unkind. He has always been in such a hurry to get away from the house that he has no time to look at me or at our three children.

When his uncle began to visit us, he praised my cooking and would stay, for hours, and help entertain them. Then he got busy and I seldom see him. I am miserable in my home again and I find that I love this man, but even if I were free to marry, wouldn't the difference in age make too much? If it should create a scandal, I feel I could never overcome it. I am not sure the relative would marry me, either, if I obtained a divorce. Is there no chance of happiness in life?

Around me I see women living with worse husbands and I am sure they never think of another man. How can I overcome this crazy love for a man who gives me so little hope? — MELANCHOLY.

In your disappointment over the discovery that married life is not just one continuation of the honeymoon, perhaps you have enjoyed the role of "neglected wife." You did not cast yourself in it deliberately. I am sure, but you have allowed self-pity to encourage the idea. Likely the relative appeared on the scene at just the dramatic moment, and the idea of bestowing your affection upon this polished gentleman of leisure, appeared in your mind. This is only a guess, of course.

Have you ever thought that your husband may be of very practical turn of mind, possibly little workaholic, or perhaps conditions are somewhat absorbed in his work? This type will take wife and children for granted and never dream that it is necessary to rave over the cooking, or stop to coddle the children. You are his, and they are his, and you ought to know he wanted you—or why would you be here?

Of course, this isn't exactly the girl's idea of devotion. Women are sentimental (and sometimes a little moony) and it is only fair that they should expect some show of affection. At the same time, try to adapt yourself and know that your husband's affection may be more the deep, for being unexpressed.

The man's attitude shows that he is likely allowing your imagination too much scope, and the fact that he stays away may be a good indication that he has seen, perhaps, that you are little time to come to your senses. Of course, the age would make a difference; he is much too old for you.

Dear Martha Carr:
I AM 23 years old, married and have four lovely children; and, through no fault of my husband's, he lost his job early last spring.

We have since lost all, or nearly all, of our furniture, and we especially appreciate a bed, as my little children have to sleep on the floor, and it is getting so cold. I am afraid it will make them sick. My husband will gladly come and get anything, anywhere in the city. Please do not print my name and address.

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.
Dear Mrs. Carr:
I RECEIVED your lovely letter and am so glad you have had a little vacation. I was glad I could write the girl at the hospital two light-weight sweaters, four pairs of all-wool hose, gloves and all-wool cap. I was sorry I hadn't the other things because we ourselves are suffering much from the depression. I tried to get a

When OLD KING WINTER Comes to ST. LOUIS

This Season's Costumes for Ice Skating Enthusiasts

By SYLVIA STILES

FROM East Side, West Side and all around the town ice skaters are congregating at that big skating rink in the West End. If you want to see skaters at their best or at their worst stop any evening. There is a place for everyone from professionals to beginners, but not all of them (especially the beginners) stay in their place.

Experts may be practicing balancing, whirling or something else special in the middle of the rink while one beginner coaxes another gingerly around the outskirts. A speed demon goes by, making a circuit in a sixth of the time that it takes an amateur to do it, but neither one seems to mind.

Girls from stores and offices go in groups, not worrying about any escorts. College girls meet others of their sets, unconcerned about chaperons or boy friends. Men trying to reduce (and a few women, too) stop for their exercise. A girl drops in with her date for an hour's skating after a picture show.

Couples who live in the neighborhood go over after washing the supper dishes and putting the children to bed.

In fact the rink seems to be about the most cosmopolitan place in town. You can go by yourself and have a good time. You can go with a crowd and do likewise. And what to wear is of little more importance than the question of who are your companions.

Wear anything you please so long as it is comfortable. Sports clothes look the nicest, of course, because they are most appropriate. But if you make a sudden decision to go skating and have on an afternoon dress, don't worry about your clothes. There will be some others on the ice quite as much dressed up as you are, and after all that is part of the fun of being a good winter sport.

SKATING costumes preferred by the majority who go to the ice pavilion might, after night include wool skirts, sweaters, mod jackets, gay wool sports socks and knitted berets. But sports suits of knitted fabrics or corduroy are observed among those who look the best, and dresses of rabbit's hair or strict feathery wool seem to have as many devotees as any.

Little money for her in the neighborhood, but it seems everyone needs their dimes badly now.

MRS. E.

How good you were to take such a sincere and kindly interest in this girl! What you sent her I consider generous, and I am sure she has enjoyed them. From her letter, and appreciates your kindness.

I cannot very well use the other request in the column, but will keep my eyes open for you.

My Dear Martha Carr:
WHEN a girl is introduced to a girl and a man, it is correct to rise to acknowledge the introduction? — MARY.

It is not customary or necessary if they are near your own age. If they were much older, you would rise. However, young girls and young men are likely to be full of motion and ready to start something, so perhaps you might feel better to get to your toes as they are introduced.

Martha Carr:
WHAT phrase or words would you suggest to use when signing a picture of myself to be given a young lady of whom I am very fond? Would you sign both names, or just the first one? — EVERS P.

It all depends upon the degree of affection you wish to express. One of the best ways to express it is to sign your name underneath. Any stereotyped phrase would be awful. "Greetings for Christmas," "Always sincerely," are all right. Or you might simply sign your first name.

to find out what girls prefer this season for indoor skating costumes. It was thought best to sketch them on an average night when they were there for the fun of the sport instead of on dress parade. In this way we were able to get the casual, everyday sort of clothes such as are typical of those to be seen most any time in the week.

The wool dress sketched at upper left is of a type which can be worn successfully for indoor skating. It is of rabbit's hair woolen in Hunter's green with its turnover collar buttoned high at the neck, and kick pleats for skirt fullness. A little knitted cap of fuzzy wool in a lighter shade of green completes this harmonious costume worn by Miss Adele Trunk.

At lower left is Miss Mary Jane Phelan, one of the smartest dressed skaters we saw, wearing a brown corduroy suit, little brown felt hat and a high-necked overblouse of green angora wool. The suit is collarless, buttoning to a high neckline, and the skirt is gored slightly to provide necessary freedom of movement.

One of the suede-jacket costumes, of which there are many in different styles and colors, is sketched third from the left. The jacket with its swaggy belted hip line is of natural beige. Green hat, green printed Ascot scarf, and green and beige checked skirt with bias godets complete this practical and attractive costume worn by Miss Myrtle Anderson of East St. Louis.

The viraculous figure sketched in the circle is Miss Charleen Power, woman's state champion, who often stops for an hour's skating in the evening. She is wearing a feathery wool dress in the new shade of bright blue, a striking feature of which is the double cape collar. White silk pique adds its light touch at neckline and cuffs.

This is the type of costume which looks equally as well on the ice as on the street.

Among the strikingly effective bright colored costumes was that worn by Miss Rose Cullison, the seated figure in the sketch. The jacket shown is of a Scotch plaid woolen, double-breasted and belted, and having generous pockets. Her red skirt has kick pleats, and the outfit is made even more colorful by a multicolored knitted scarf beret.

Another striking costume which is not shown was worn by Miss Mary Fogassy, a popular young skater. Her costume was entirely of red woolen and included a "red" beret, red turtle-neck sweater and a skirt of the same shade. Her sister, Miss Catherine Fogassy, wore a similar costume combining orange with brown.

Two exponents of white knitted sweaters and coats with dark skirts and berets are sketched at upper right. The costume at left includes a white knitted windbreaker, a dark green wool skirt, green and white sweater, and a close-fitting hat. It was worn by Miss Helen Hildebrand. Her companion, Miss Edith Brown, is seen wearing the "sweat shirt" type of sweater which so many youthful skaters affect. A black wool skirt and tan add to its sportiveness.

White knitted jackets and slip-on sweaters, some of them after the manner of boys' "sweat shirts" made a striking appearance when worn with black or brown skirts and matching berets. Turtle neck sweaters in gay colors or white contribute to the vivacity of other skating outfits.

Her red skirt has kick pleats, and the outfit is made even more colorful by a multicolored knitted scarf beret.

Another striking costume which is not shown was worn by Miss Mary Fogassy, a popular young skater. Her costume was entirely of red woolen and included a "red" beret, red turtle-neck sweater and a skirt of the same shade. Her sister, Miss Catherine Fogassy, wore a similar costume combining orange with brown.

Two exponents of white knitted sweaters and coats with dark skirts and berets are sketched at upper right. The costume at left includes a white knitted windbreaker, a dark green wool skirt, green and white sweater, and a close-fitting hat. It was worn by Miss Helen Hildebrand. Her companion, Miss Edith Brown, is seen wearing the "sweat shirt" type of sweater which so many youthful skaters affect. A black wool skirt and tan add to its sportiveness.

White knitted jackets and slip-on sweaters, some of them after the manner of boys' "sweat shirts" made a striking appearance when worn with black or brown skirts and matching berets. Turtle neck sweaters in gay colors or white contribute to the vivacity of other skating outfits.

BEHIND THE SCREENS
By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 20.
HEN George Arliss sets about the business of rehearsing for a new picture, a serious, quiet and workmanlike job of rehearsing is in prospect not only for Mr. Arliss, but for all the players who will take part.

Arliss begins usually about 10 days before a camera is turned,
and while players draw pay for rehearsals in the theater, those not utilized in the rehearsal methods soon realize that they are working for that pay.

The rehearsal hall isn't elaborate, just a large conference room where quiet is assured, and privacy. The only props are chairs and a table, a pencil and a book.

The ceremonies begin promptly each morning at 10, and the director doesn't sit in until the last few days. Arliss and Miss Maud Howell, his "dramatic adviser" and former stage manager, take the reins until then, working out the details of all the business which later is to brighten the screen presentation.

THE simple props serve as substitutes for any or all of the elaborate furnishings which when the cameras start will decorate the Arliss sets. The chair may be a throne, a bus seat, a divan.
The table is for rehearsal purposes, a banquet board, a royal feast, or a business desk. The book? That's any of the larger hand props—such as a scepter or a head of cabbage or a baseball—and the pencil serves for any smaller prop, such as a letter, or even a pencil.

Mr. Arliss, by the way, is supposed to be a difficult type to cast; that is, stories for him are said to be unusually difficult to find. Yet the vehicles for his seasonal output of three pictures, to be made before his annual vacation, are chosen already—before the first is under way.

L OLA LANE, who gave up pictures when she became Mrs.
Lew Ayres, wants to come back and do things again—but finds she was taken seriously when she said she was through. Being a housewife doesn't begin to take the time she thought it would, she says.

Winter Fur Coat Styles
Stress Length
THE fashion news in winter fur coats lies in their length.
While cloth models concentrate their interest about the waist, the new fur models stress the reverse, for lengths vary all the way from hip-length capes to three-quarter length models and the ultimate full-length designs.
Three-quarter and seven-eighths length straight-line models of kid-trunk and leopard are shown by many houses as "the last word" in sports smartness. Most of them are designed along ultra simple lines, with squared shoulders, small collars and straight sleeves.
Fur coats for formal town wear are built on classic lines, their simplicity being their outstanding feature.
A plain black breitchaizant model with a collar which may be worn buttoned high or opened in a deep shawl, a black galyak designed along princely lines and inlaid with a small collar and lower pouch sleeve and a semi-fitted mink with a soft cape collar are favorites.

Witticisms From Ted Cook
The Influence of the Stars

HOROSCOPE
by WYNN

For Tuesday, Nov. 22.
DON'T make the mistake of thinking your hunch is a world beater, especially before late afternoon. Better not get too far off the smooth path. Evening looks improved, especially for old matters and dealing with your seniors.
Behind the Hand.
There is something behind what we see with our external eyes that is the director of our energies and abilities. The violin doesn't play the tune; and the hand of Heifetz doesn't play the violin—the living soul and spirit of the master direct the practice and playing of the hand that plays the instrument.
The hand of a departed maestro and the physical violin are both dead; without the qualities that are not physical there can be no music. And the brain, including all intellectual processes of thinking, remembering and imagining, is an instrument on which the soul and spirit of man play the same as a musician plays his violin. The amount of soul and spirit that goes into our thinking determines more of our results than we at first suppose.

If Today is Your Birthday.
You natives of this date have all concerned. Your year ahead

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS
Now that we have a Democratic administration in sight, how does one go about filing an application for a job as postmaster? J. C. AND OTHERS.
The job of postmaster is no longer a political appointment. Applicants in this region should write to the Civil Service Commission in St. Louis and ask for an application blank. The examination which has to be passed is not particularly easy.

What is the method of fireproofing cotton or woolen cloth?
X. Y. Z.
Too technical to be explained in a newspaper answer. A solution which has been widely used is one made of three parts of ammonium phosphate, two parts of ammonium chloride and one part of ammonium sulphate and about 40 parts of water. Fabrics so treated are not really fireproof, only fire-retarding.

Are there any places in St.
Louis where natural hair can be sold to those who make wig-

SUZANNE.
Yes. In the classified lists of the telephone directory, under "Hair Goods," you will find a number of addresses where further information can be obtained.

Do you have to go to a college to be admitted to a college sor-

Yes, and then admittance is only by invitation. There is no certainty that any college student will receive a bid. There are sororities

JUDGE FARIS ASKED TO DISQUALIFY SELF IN FRISCO ACTION

Two Bondholders Who Filed Original Receivership Suit Say He Threatened to Expel Counsel.

THEY SAY HE SHOWED UNFRIENDLY FEELING

Jurist Quoted as Stating 'You Are Trying to Wash Your Dirty Linen in This Court.'

Two bondholders who filed the original receivership suit against the Frisco Railroad and whose lawyer objected to Federal Judge Faris "threat to expel him from the courthouse," asked Judge Faris today to disqualify himself from acting in the receivership.

The application, by Charles and Dora Gans of Baltimore, quoted other remarks of Judge Faris, made both in the court room and in his chambers, which it said showed his "ill and unfriendly feeling" against the Ganses and their lawyers. His remarks, it was alleged, included charges that the suit was brought for its "nuisance value" and that the attorneys were more interested in fees than the welfare of their clients.

Most of the remarks were directed to Jack Lewis Kraus of New York, who came to St. Louis by airplane to represent his clients and whom the Court on one occasion dryly accused of a desire to make flowery speeches.

Repeater of Court and Counsel. On another occasion the plaintiff's bill condition, when Kraus objected to consolidation of the suit with the friendly suit of the Hobbs Western Co., Judge Faris said, "You are trying to wash your dirty linen in this court—I have been on the bench so long to be fooled by lawyers."

Kraus replied, it was said, "I am not fooling anybody nor am I in any habit and I expect to your remark." Whereupon, it was said, the Court added: "I do not know that your habits are," and declined to consider an offer to prove that the Hobbs Western suit was collusive.

Later in the argument, it was charged, Judge Faris indicated his prejudice again by saying, "I was not in the beginning impressed very much with the seriousness of the Gans suit, and I say that on account of the amount involved ($2500) and the manner in which it came here. I might have been mistaken."

Basis of the "Threat." The "threat" against Kraus came in Judge Faris' chambers when attorneys for both sides were seeking to agree on the way to proceed in the Gans suit. Kraus had objected "in a quiet manner and without indulging in personalities" to the appointment of E. T. Miller, general counsel for the Frisco, as sole attorney for the receiver.

In response to his quiet statement, Judge Faris, it was said, turned on him and declared he had known Miller well and favorably since 1912. Then when Kraus attempted to explain that he had meant nothing personal, Faris exhibited his "keen bias." It was set forth, by stating "You have deliberately and for some time past been trying to insult this Court by insinuating that you are another word shall have you expelled from this courthouse."

"You Are Not Fooling Me." Later, but still in chambers, Faris was alleged to have said to Kraus, "You are not fooling me." The application added, Judge Faris on another occasion showed further prejudice against the application, adding, when he said there was "an issue of veracity" between Mayer and the court. Faris said Mayer had told him he would not object to the appointment of President J. N. Kurn of the Frisco as receiver. Mayer took exception to the Court's statement and said he had not objected to Kurn's appointment previously and that he was not a receiver.

Before the application was filed, B. Rosenblum and Clyde Wagner, other St. Louis counsel for the Gans, withdrew as attorneys of record. Judge Faris disqualify himself, the case will be referred to Kimbrough Stone, presiding judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who then may designate a Judge of the District Court or of the Court of Appeals to handle the case.
